Marilyn's Diary

Hello Folks!

At last we are in Victoria, where we will meet that stretch of water I have heard so much about—the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Marilyn

That name—I wonder how many times it has gone through my mind in the past few months?

But the thinking part is over now. We are here and we are going to settle right down to my training program for the swim I want so badly to make.

The welcome we received on our arrival at the airport Sunday night was something I will always cherish.

* * *

I met Mayor Scurrah at the airport and he told me that he hoped I would carry away many lovely memories of Victoria. The friendly manner in which people greeted us will certainly live forever in the minds of our party, I can promise that.

At the airport, I met civic representatives and people connected with the arrangements for my swim. I also met three other swimmers who have tried the strait and I thought it was very kind of them to come out to greet me and wish me luck.

Amy Hiland, who made a very brave attempt last week was there and I was surprised at how well she looked. She had a tough swim Friday, yet on Sunday she looked as fresh and pretty as a flower.

Bill Muir is the first bearded distance swimmer I have ever met and I wondered if Ben Laughren has any trouble keeping to his training program when he is such an accomplished chef.

* * *

On our drive in from the airport, I kept taking deep gulps of the wonderfully clean, fresh air and I thought the countryside looked so pretty with all the farms and fields.

I was waving to people from the car and there were so many people that I accidentally waved to a mailbox once by mistake. No wonder it didn't wave back!

* * *

The Old Charming Inn certainly is properly named. It is quaint, lovely and wonderfully comfortable. Gus said I don't have to swim today so I think I will spend as much time in my room as I can. It's really too pretty to leave.

I want to enjoy the comforts of life while I can because from here on in, we are going to work. This will be the toughest challenge of my life and I want to be ready for it.

PRINCESS, TOWNSEND IN WEEKEND MEETING

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret slipped back into London today quietly and alone after a weekend in the country.

The Sunday Express suggested she may have met Group Capt. Peter Townsend at mutual friends' house party. Townsend was also reported to be spending the weekend "in the country."

City Welcomes Marilyn; And She Loves Victoria

BEN, AMY AND BILL OFFER BEST WISHES

Swim Star Begins Training Tuesday

By DENNY BOYD

Marilyn Bell, the Toronto swimming star, got up at 7 a.m. today for her first "unofficial" look at Victoria and loved it.

She and her companion, Maria Brenk, went for a stroll along the Oak Bay waterfront before breakfast.

With her toes Marilyn tested the water of Juan de Fuca Strait which she will attempt to swim five or six weeks from now.

After breakfast she and her coach, Gus Ryder and other swim party members went over to Oak Bay boathouse to inspect the training boat "Alibi" owned by Dakers Scott. A hundred Oak Bay children tagged along and Marilyn posed with them for pictures.

Marilyn will make her first training swim at 9 a.m. Tuesday. It had been planned to have her swim this morning, but Coach Ryder ruled instead she should have a day of relaxation after her flight from Toronto Sunday.

Marilyn arrived Sunday night to a tumultuous welcome which set the stage for her meeting with "the Mount Everest of swims."

And Victoria fell in love with her.

Coach Ryder was as enthusiastic about Victoria as Marilyn.

"There is a quaintness and a peace here. Perhaps you who live here are so accustomed to it you don't notice it. It reminds me of when we were training for the Channel at Folkestone last year."

The 18-year-old Toronto girl, conqueror of Lake Ontario and the English Channel, arrived at Patricia Bay Airport at 6.45 Sunday night together with her famous coach, silver-thatched Gus Ryder, and her travelling companions, to begin intensive training for her Times-Tely strait swim in late August or early September.

Touched By Victoria's Greeting

Victorians provided a warm welcome that obviously touched the girl who became an internationally-known figure in 1954 when she courageously battled for 16 hours to become the first person to swim Lake Ontario.

A crowd of almost 1,000 packed the airport, jostling each other in an effort to see her and to shout words of welcome and wishes of "Good Luck, Marilyn, we're all behind you."

As she stepped off her airplane, Miss Bell was greeted by Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times which is a co-sponsor of the $20,000-guaranteed swim.

Arriving with Marilyn and coach Ryder were Marilyn's travelling companion, Maria Brenk; chaperone Phyllis Griffiths of the Toronto Telegram, and Telegram reporter-photographer team, Dorothy Howarth and Jack Judges.

Mr. Keate introduced Marilyn to Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurrah, and Mrs. Scurrah presented the five-foot, two-inch 129-pound swim star with a bouquet of red roses on behalf of the city.

Civic greetings were extended Marilyn by Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich, Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt and Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay.

Harold Elworthy, Island Tug & Barge president, gave Miss Bell an encouraging message when he told her, "We are supplying the boats for your swim and we are going to get you across."

Miss Bell was particularly pleased to meet three other swimmers who have tried, unsuccessfully, to defeat the Strait. On hand to offer their best wishes were Amy Hiland, the courageous Long Beach, Calif., housewife, who failed last Friday by a scant mile and a half, to become the first woman to cross the Strait; Saanich surveyor Bill Muir, who also came within a mile and a half of success, and Ben Laughren, the swimming chef, who is considered a top contender in the Juan de Fuca fight.

Regret Expressed at Amy's Loss

Marilyn said to Mrs. Hiland, "You made a wonderful try. I heard all about it and I was so sorry that you had bad luck so close to the finish.

She joked with Muir about the whiskers he is growing to celebrate the Saanich Golden Jubilee and posed for pictures, tickling the whiskers.

Others in the receiving line were swim officials Archie McKinnon and Jack Todd and Mrs. Jean Henderson of the Cerebral Palsy Association.

Leaving the airport, Marilyn and Gus perched on the top of the back seat of their car, waving at people who parked along the highway to watch the motorcade that started with 10 cars and grew to 40.

A police motorcycle escort picked up the car parade at the city limits and, sirens wailing and horns hooting, the cars proceeded to the Old Charming Inn in Oak Bay.

Miss Bell said to her driver, "I hope no one is trying to sleep in this neighborhood. City Hall might receive some nasty letters about all the noise."

She commented favorably on the freshness of the Victoria air, the beauty of the homes, and the city's famous hanging flower baskets.

On arrival at the picturesque inn, where 200 more people, most of them armed with cameras, awaited her. Marilyn spoke briefly to the crowd, saying, "I am really happy to be here. I want very much to try this swim and I want you to know that I will do my very best."

Coach Ryder told the crowd, "You can put your confidence in this fine young Canadian."

After a few minutes to look at her suite, Miss Bell answered dozens of questions at an informal press conference.

She told the press that she had heard about the Strait from unsuccessful challengers Florence Chadwick, Father Donelon and Janice White.

She said she preferred swimming in salt water for the buoyancy it provides, does not wear grease while swimming and would probably tackle the strait using a 60-70-cycle flutter-kick crawl.

Regarding temperatures, she said that she had swum in 42-degree water. She said, "If you're cold, you're cold and one or two degrees doesn't make much difference then."

Marilyn's training program will start Tuesday with her first practise swim. She was given today off to rest up from her long trip out from Toronto and the strain of her reception.

She will swim every day except Sundays and Ryder plans to gradually increase the duration of her practise swims.

He said, "Right now, Marilyn is 50 per cent in physical condition but, as always, she is 100 per cent in desire and courage."

No set date has been established for her swim but Marilyn said she has to return to Toronto for enrollment at McGill University in the third week of September. She will enter the first year of her physiotheraphy course.

Her rigid training regime will allow little time for social diversions but Marilyn will attend a Cerebral Palsy Association Garden Party at the Harold

Adenauer, Nehru Ask Disarmament

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany and Prime Minister Nehru of India today called for a world disarmament agreement including proper provisions for control and inspection. Their views were set out in a joint communique issued after Nehru's three-day visit to Bonn.

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia today called on the United States and Britain to agree that all three countries stop testing nuclear weapons.

Dmitri Shepilov, making his first public address here since taking over from V. M. Molotov as foreign minister, told 1,300 delegates to the Supreme Soviet this aim could be achieved in any one of three ways. He listed these as:

1. Within the framework of the United Nations.

2. A tripartite agreement among the three powers concerned, which other countries could join later.

3. Separate official statement from each government declaring they were abandoning nuclear tests.

URGE JOINT DEMAND

Shepilov urged the three-way agreement shortly after the Supreme Soviet, meeting in the Kremlin, unanimously adopted an appeal addressed to all other parliaments in the world to join with the Soviet legislation in demanding an end to the arms race and swifter progress toward disarmament.

His statement came in a debate on a motion, later adopted unanimously, extending Soviet support to an appeal from the Japanese parliament for an end to nuclear weapons tests. The Soviet action came a week before the scheduled start of peace treaty talks with the Japanese.

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United States were reported today willing to negotiate an agreement with Russia to limit—but not end—the testing of nuclear weapons.

British and American diplomats said the aim would be to guard mankind against the hazards of radiation.

WIRE BRIEFS

Airliner Crashes

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A two-engine Argentine airliner crashed today near Rio Cuarto, 375 miles northwest of here, with 14 passengers and four crew members aboard. First reports from the interior said no survivors were sighted.

Fisherman Perishes

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A man identified only as Norman McLeod perished in a fire that swept a Vancouver gillnet fishing boat in the coastal waters off northern B.C.

Search Water Drains

WESTBURY, N.Y. (UP)—Police were scheduled today to begin searching water drains near the house from which Peter Weinberger was kidnapped in an effort to find the missing baby's body.

Court Martial Starts

PARRIS ISLAND (AP)—The general court martial trial of Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, charged with manslaughter in the drowning of six Marine recruits April 8, opened today.

Aussies Score 143

LEEDS, Eng. (Reuters)—Australia was all-out for 143 runs in answer to England's first innings total of 325 by mid-afternoon on the fourth day of the third cricket test match here today.

Gas Price War Waged

VANCOUVER (CP)—A gasoline price war has started in suburban Burnaby.

Two service stations served notice that they were cutting the price of gas as much as six cents.

British Columbia's only self-service station announced that starting today prices would drop to 33.9 cents a gallon for regular and 36.9 cents for premium.

Across the street a station operator cut prices four cents Saturday to meet his competitor.

A station on the Lougheed highway cut prices four cents Saturday to 34.9 cents a gallon.

Al McTaggart, operator of the station, admitted a price "war" is on and said today "I hope something happens soon. We aren't losing money; but we sure aren't making any."

HERE AT LAST—Marilyn and coach Gus Ryder arrive at Pat Bay.

B.C. Child Dragged to Death

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Paulette Martin, 2, her harness hooked to the rear bumper of a car, was dragged a mile to her death near this Kootenay centre Saturday.

RCMP said the baby was the daughter of Mrs. J. P. Martin of Sunshine Bay, B.C. Her father lives in Vancouver.

She was staying at the farm of her grandparents at Proctor, 20 miles west of here.

Police said John Dvorak, 19, had borrowed a car from the child's grandparents and returned it Saturday.

Then he jumped into his own vehicle, not knowing the child's leather harness had been hooked to the rear bumper to keep her from wandering into a nearby creek.

The child was dragged a mile before the driver was stopped by the frantic shouts of witnesses.

CAR IN RIVER

Other B.C. fatalities included an unidentified woman who drowned when her car plunged into the Skeena river, 66 miles east of Prince Rupert.

Fred May, 65, died after being hit by a car in Vancouver's East End.

Europe, Asia In Range of New Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has told Congress that a new ship-launched atomic missile now in the making will be able to hit any target within nine-tenths of the vast Communist domains of Europe and Asia.

That assumption is based on the ability of the launching ships to get close enough.

The navy disclosed some of its war plans for the Jupiter, as well as for missiles and attack planes already in the fleet, in hitherto secret testimony before the Senate airpower investigating committee headed by Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., Mo.).

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O GOD, we give Thee thanks today for the spirit which has moved so many Victoria churches to join in an appeal to the heart of every man. May we see in this the fulfillment of the words of Thy Son: "Keep through Thine own name those whom Thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are." Amen.

NARROW ESCAPE

Standing near a Canadian Pacific Railway boxcar which came within six feet of demolishing their Vancouver waterfront home are Mrs. Dorothy Anderson, 49, and her son. Both were in the house when the boxcar, loaded with 45 tons of grain, toppled down the steep embankment. It had been thrown from a track siding above by a derailing device after it was cut loose by a switching engine.

216 Firemen Hurt In N.Y. Inferno

NEW YORK (AP)—A week-end fire that destroyed the old, abandoned John Wanamaker department store and knocked out a section of the subway caused an unprecedented jam-up of riders at Grand Central Terminal today.

Nearly a dozen persons were felled by the heat during the morning rush hour, in what a policeman described as the largest crowd he had ever seen at the normally busy terminal.

Water from fire hoses poured onto the burning building down on Astor Place cascaded into the Interborough Rapid Transit Lexington Avenue line and the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit subway. Both link Brooklyn and Manhattan and serve a large area of Manhattan.

The stubborn fire, meanwhile smoldered into a third day in the ruins of the old block-square building in lower Manhattan.

The toll of firemen treated for smoke poisoning, cuts and burns mounted to 216. Twenty were in hospital.

Officials said a spark from an acetylene torch may have started the blaze Friday. Wreckers had recently begun demolishing the ornate stone and iron structure.

The fire apparently smouldered in the basement until late Saturday afternoon. Then flames suddenly shot up an air well in the centre of the five-storey building and spread to the roof.

The five-alarm fire roared out of control Saturday night and Sunday. At 1 a.m. today an assistant fire chief said the blaze was "completely under control" and firemen were mopping up. A few flames continued flickering in the rubble, however.

The building, a Manhattan landmark, was left a hollow shell.

LOOKING in good spirits, Justice Minister Stuart Garson returned to the House of Commons today for the first time since undergoing an operation June 1. The 62-year-old minister was operated on for an abdominal ailment.

World Could Be Split By U.S. Policy—Nehru

BONN, Germany (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru says U.S. policy could split the world into two hostile camps.

"The United States expects others to follow its will," the visiting Indian leader said in a speech to the West German foreign policy association Saturday night.

"If they do not, they the United States feel hurt and think there is something wrong with the other man's thinking.

"This kind of thinking leaves no room for any country to sit on the fence. If carried to its final end, it divides the world into two hostile camps, each of which is ready to spring at the throat of the other."

Nehru said the cold war "leads to encouraging hatred, suspicion and fear of the other."

PERVERTED THINKING

"Much of our thinking is perverted by concepts of communism and anti-communism. If Russia had been a great power, as it is today, without being a Communist power, the same conflict undoubtedly would exist."

The prime minister said the two major world problems today are a divided Germany and the Far East.

Nehru called the German problem a tremendous one. He said it could be solved either by "imposed overwhelming strength" or by peaceful negotiation.

"In this case, however, a climate of peace must be created," he added.

Nehru said it was wrong to harass Russia after the Bolshevik revolution. This mistake was repeated in the treatment accorded Red China. He called the Peiping regime stable and strong and repeated his demand that it be seated in the United Nations.

Nehru said world conditions are improving and a "climate of peace is being created." He declared "too much importance is attached to the military method of doing things, adding that "men still count despite the atomic bomb."

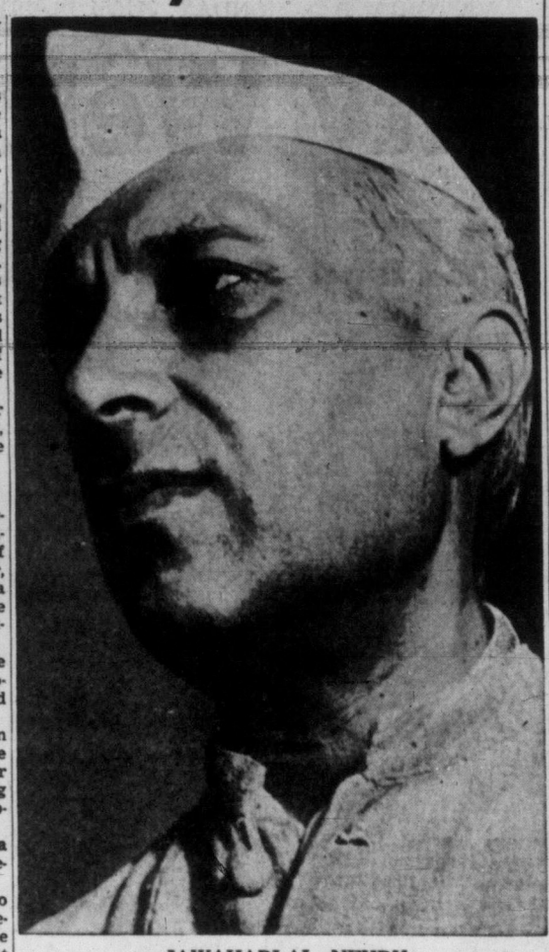
He spoke against the background of a press conference at which he declined to rule out the possibility that India might recognize Communist East Germany.

FUTURE UNKNOWN

"I do not know what the developments will be," Nehru said. "No minister of my government can tie down the government and say what it is going to do in the future."

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has repeatedly declared the Bonn republic would consider recognition of the rival German government by other states a hostile act. Adenauer's position is that such recognition would solidify the division of Germany. India now has diplomatic relations with West Germany and maintains only trade ties with East Germany.

Nehru is winding up a four-day visit to West Germany after attending the Commonwealth conference in London.



JAWAHARLAL NEHRU

Arsonist Five Times

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chen Wei-Juo, 20-year-old student at a teachers' college, has been arrested on charges of trying five times to burn down his dormitory. "I wanted to destroy the dormitory," he told police, "because I can't have late dates with girls when I live there."

17-Year-Old Tackles Strait on Wednesday

English-born Anita Long of Victoria will be the youngest person to attempt the Strait of Juan de Fuca when she hits the waters at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

The pretty 17-year-old Wilson's Stationery clerk will plunge in at Rocky Point, near Albert Head.

Coach - manager Gerry Lavigne said today he wants his swimmer to be the first to succeed in the swim from the Canadian to the United States shore. If successful, another bid would be made at a later date from Victoria to Port Angeles.

Anita will "definitely" enter the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored mass swim from here to Port Angeles when definite dates and times have been arranged.

Accompanying vessel will be the tug Polar Forcite and navigator will be Capt. Rolly Robinson.

Meanwhile, less than $100 has been forthcoming for the Bill Muir swim fund.

Fund trustee, Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash, said today there had been "a lot of promises" but people just weren't following through. Muir made a valiant attempt a week ago, one of the best to date.

However, he has received $60 from the Douglas roller skating gardens which for the second night in a week donated skater money to Muir."

"THANKLESS" JOB — Because he is "getting tired of this thankless job," Walter Turnbull, 59, deputy postmaster-general has announced his retirement in October, 1957, five years ahead of normal retiring time. Mr. Turnbull and some MPs have disagreed for years over the franking privilege allowed MPs. The post office is one of two patronage departments left in the government and Mr. Turnbull has tried to put it on a strictly business basis.

AFTER 7 MONTHS

Indonesia Vote Known

JAKARTA (AP)—The result of Indonesia's marathon Constituent Assembly elections was announced officially today—seven months after voting started on Dec. 15.

Seats in the Constituent Assembly will be almost evenly divided among four major parties. This indicates the 520-member assembly will become a bitter political battleground and that this country, which now follows a neutral line, will not have a constitution for years.

ORANGEMEN URGE SELECT IMMIGRATION

VANCOUVER (CP)—Some 2,000 members of the Loyal Orange Association in British Columbia's lower mainland area have urged the federal government to adopt a tighter immigration policy.

The delegates voted at their annual meeting Saturday in favor of a resolution calling for a "planned immigration policy which will permit into Canada only those persons of Anglo-Saxon states, or nationals of those countries which enjoy and practice our ideals and forms of government . . . and only those who can be readily assimilated."

Dean Neville Scarfe, newly appointed dean of the college of education at UBC, will speak on "Education and Morals" tonight at Oak Bay Junior High School at 8.15. Audience will be summer school students. This is Scarfe's first speech in Victoria.

CONSORT FALLS IN POLO GAME; NOT INJURED

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP)—Duke of Edinburgh fell from his horse while playing polo Sunday. Queen Elizabeth and their two children were looking on.

Two medical men among the spectators at Windsor Great Park rushed to the knot of players around the duke. By the time they reached him, the duke had risen to his feet. He remounted another pony and resumed play.

One doctor said there seemed to be nothing wrong with the Queen's husband. The saddle of the duke's mount came off while the duke was chasing the ball in midfield.

Alternate Day Milk Delivery Seen Possible

By AB KENT

An eight-hour day in a five-day week as desired by Victoria local of Milk Driers' and Dairy Workers Union could mean introduction of alternate day milk delivery in the city.

The union is expected to make its annual contract demands in about two months, following anticipated settlement of negotiations between Vancouver employees and operators, with which local workers are at parity. Mainland demand is for an eight-hour day.

Companies want a five-day week with no deliveries Sunday, as at present, or Wednesday.

The union objects to this proposal, staunchly opposed in negotiations last year, on grounds that deliverymen would be required to accomplish the work of two days prior to each off-day, and would have extra work in pickup of empty bottles the following days.

It has been suggested that routes and drivers be split up to allow alternate deliveries and still give drivers a five-day week.

For example, in an area presently served by three delivery trucks each with 300 customers, the route would be split between two drivers, giving one man the opportunity to work on an alternate route, or take his day off.

The two drivers would handle 450 customers between them on alternate days, making 225 each per day. But since each customer would be visited only every other day, extra milk would be required, coming out in effect at 450 deliveries per working day.

Provincial regulations presently restrict milkmen to no more than 10 hours' employment in one day, or 350 in seven weeks, which comes out to 15 hours a week more than allowed by the Hours of Work Act, union secretary John Brown said in Vancouver.

Regulations have been effective for many years, he pointed out, and much of their interpretation is ambiguous.

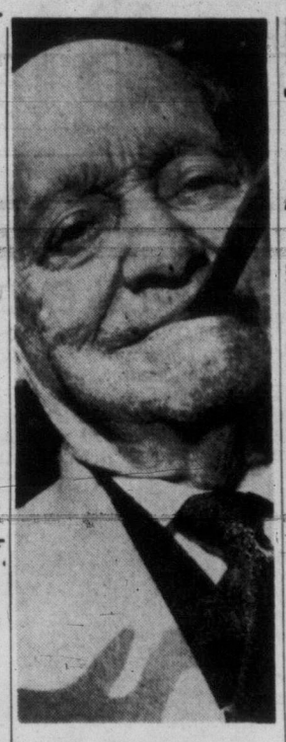
Two Germans Die In New Clashes With U.S. Troops

NUERNBERG, Germany (UP)—Bavarian government heads called a special session today to demand U.S. army action to halt clashes between American soldiers and German civilians. Two Germans were killed and a third hospitalized over the weekend.

Bavarian state president Wilhelm Hoegner summoned the council of ministers to Munich.

"Words do not help," he said. "Serious action must be taken now by U.S. army authorities or real trouble will start."

Two teen-age German girls were raped the previous weekend.



98 ON SUNDAY — Harry Louis Salmon, retired tobacconist, marked his 98th birthday Sunday. London-born, he came to Victoria in 1884, bought a share in a newspaper, the Victoria Evening Post, and became its advertising manager. Shortly after he opened a cigar store at Yates and Government which was so well known the intersection was called "Salmon's Corner." Mr. Salmon is the oldest member of the Jewish faith in Victoria and the oldest past master of a Masonic lodge.

That's right, 10 teeth, to the astonishment Saturday night of doctors and nurses at Sun Valley Hospital and James' parents, Lewis and Maria Meeks. They have four other children.

Baby James has more teeth than his brother, Lewis Jr., who is nearly two.

Britain To Cut Arms 25%?

LONDON (AP) — Sharp slashes in Britain's defence budget appear imminent. There is a growing feeling here that the Soviet threat now is more economic than military.

The Russians are making headway in a campaign to convince Western countries — particularly Britain and France — that arms expenditures are at the root of their economic woes. It could have a far-reaching effect on the Western defence set-up.

Prime Minister Eden's government is under pressure to make drastic cuts in both men and money earmarked for defence—as much as 33⅓ per cent. Government ministers are talking in terms of a 25-per-cent reduction.

Britain now spends about $4,500,000,000 on defence out of a total annual budget equivalent to $12,500,000,000.

The Opposition has long been clamoring for slowing the defence program.

LIBERAL DEMANDS

During the weekend Liberal leader Clement Davies, whose party often supports the government's general policy, joined in demanding a cut. Davies suggested nearly $1,500,000,000 could be lopped off.

"The whole strategy of war has completely changed, he said.

MARILYN, GUS, MAKE NEW FRIENDS

ROYAL WELCOME FOR SWIM QUEEN

"Canada's Sweetheart" became Victoria's sweetheart Sunday when Marilyn Bell arrived in the city to begin training for her Juan de Fuca Strait attempt. Victorians turned out in masses to greet the 18-year-old Toronto girl at the airport and at her hotel. Here Marilyn and her trainer, Gus Ryder, take time out to say a few words to the crowd that assembled at Old Charming Inn to make her welcome and wish her luck.—(Photos by Halkett)

FLOWERS FOR A CHAMPION

Red roses, traditional emblem of esteem, were presented Toronto's famous distance swimmer Marilyn Bell on her arrival in Victoria Sunday. Mrs. Percy Scurrah, wife of Victoria's mayor, made the presentation.

Massey Greeted In Haida Tongue By Blind Chief

Governor-General Receives Native Gifts; Sees Logging Operations

By ERWIN FRICKE

SKIDEGATE MISSION, B.C. (CP)—A blind Indian chief, believed to be the last of the hereditary chiefs of the Haida nation, Sunday welcomed Governor-General Vincent Massey in a dying language.

Edward Ollinson, speaking Haida, welcomed the vice-regal party to this historic Indian village. His words were translated into English sentence by sentence.

Few of the island's 1,000-odd Haidas understand the language. Fewer yet speak it. The children speak only English.

The old chief and younger counselor made their speeches at a dinner in the community hall here. The dinner, with smoked sockeye salmon appealing particularly to the Governor-General, was prepared and served by the Haidas following a service in their United Church. His Excellency read the lesson at the service.

Mr. Massey, given two slate totems by the Haidas at Masset Friday, Sunday received another example of Haida art—a set of carved slate bookends from Skidegate Mission.

Saturday, the Governor-General saw lumber machinery in operation near Skidegate and gave RCMP Walter Taylor his first real signs of concern.

Drives Giant Logging Arch

The Governor-General surprised members of his party by driving away in a gigantic $35,000 machine called an electric arch and used for dragging logs. He operated it by its dashboard push-buttons, dragging seven huge Sitka spruce logs—weighing 38 tons.

"It was wonderful fun," he said as he and the regulation driver, who had ridden co-pilot, climbed down from the cabin 15 feet up. "Now you know what to get me for Christmas," he said to Lionel Massey, his son and secretary.

Viv Williams, owner of the monstrous machine, replied:

"We'll see you are hired next year."

Another sight which stopped the Governor-General was the performance of high-rigger Kurt Gudlauski, 25-year-old former German miner now employed by the Powell River Co.

Gudlauski lopped the top 50 feet from a 225-foot spruce and rode the bucking, swaying pole.

In the address at Massett, Mr. Massey entreated them not to allow their ancient culture, which has been an inspiration to many modern-day British Columbia writers and painters, to die out.

Later he visited a 22-bed United Church hospital at Queen Charlotte City which is administered by Dr. Mairi Maclean, one of the youngest hospital superintendents in Canada.

One of Mr. Massey's last acts was to pass out ice cream bars to 100 Haida and white children who thronged the government dock for a flag-waving, cheering farewell. The bars were a gift from the frigate HMCS Jonquiere, which brought the Governor-General from, and is returning him to, Prince Rupert.

The Jonquiere returns to Prince Rupert today with the Governor-General, who is continuing his 10-day tour to B.C. interior points, then finally to Victoria and Vancouver.

Governor-General Massey will arrive in Victoria next Friday and will be the guest of Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at Government House.

CO-SPONSOR GREETS MARILYN

First person to greet Marilyn Bell as she alighted from her airplane at Patricia Bay airport Sunday night was Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times, which will co-sponsor her Juan de Fuca Strait attempt.

Prospectors Need Their Sidearms—MP

OTTAWA (BUP) — Justice Minister Stuart Garson, today promised in the House of Commons to investigate complaints that prospectors in British Columbia were being prevented from carrying revolvers.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) said the RCMP were refusing permits to the prospectors to carry revolvers, for the first time in history, with the result that "some may lose their lives."

Garson said he had received complaints in two cases but on investigation found that the RCMP was adhering to the law.

"It may be that the law should be amended, and something should be done very quickly," Green said.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) also asked Garson to review the cases.

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

Drew Lashes Out At Tax Proposals

(From Times News Services)

Opposition leader Drew said today the government's new tax-splitting proposals appear to be a "cynical butchery of the federal system."

He launched a sharp attack on the scheme after Finance Minister Harris initiated debate by introducing a resolution to precede the formal presentation of legislation.

Mr. Harris said that because of federal defence and other commitments the government could not provide the provinces with any additional tax concessions other than those outlined at previous federal-provincial conferences.

The new system, to replace the federal-provincial tax rental agreements which expire next March, would increase annual federal outlays to the provinces to $653,000,000 a year. This would be an increase of $115,000,000 over what would have been available to them if the rental pacts had been extended.

Mr. Harris said the federal government needs large tax sources to meet commitments, some of which were provincial responsibilities under the constitution. Forty per cent of the federal budget was required for defence needs. Social welfare payments, such as family allowances and old age pensions, cost almost $900,000,000 a year and were "constantly rising."

The government also had undertaken commitments to the provinces in health, trans-Canada highway construction and university and vocational grants.

Limit Has Been Reached—Harris

"We are under constant pressure from all sides to increase these forms of aid," he said.

Together with projected national health insurance costs federal outlays as a result of recent federal-provincial conferences might go up about $320,000,000 a year.

"I think it becomes quite clear there is a very practical limit to our ability to dispose of our revenue sources and it is our view this limit has been reached with these proposals at this time."

Mr. Harris said the government is gratified by the degree of provincial acceptance of the scheme, but Mr. Drew said Mr Harris was making a rather mild and deceptive interpretation of the vehement provincial denunciation of the "inadequate" proposals.

He described Mr. Harris' statement as a "tribal incantation." The provinces were badly in need of more funds to meet the growing demands of municipalities.

The federal government's offer was not a generous handout but a means of reaching into tax fields that belonged principally to the provinces under the constitution.

New Attempt To End Steel Strike

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Steel industry management and union negotiators make another try today at ending the contract deadlock which has sent 650,000 United Steelworkers on strike for 16 days.

Representatives of the industry's big three—U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic Steel Corporations—met with USW officials while federal officials stood by with "suggestions," if necessary, on ways to end the dispute. The session, the third since the strike began July 1, followed a weekend recess.

U.S. Mediation Service director Joseph F. Finnegan, who got the talks started again last Thursday, went to Washington during the weekend to report on the negotiations to Secretary of Labor James Mitchell.

USW president David J. McDonald said the first two sessions of the renewed series have produced "absolutely no change in the situation."

McLaughlin Named Roofing Conciliator

About 12 carpenters are affected.

The Bomb or Nothing

IF THERE IS ANYTHING WRONG with Canada's defence administration, as Lieutenant-General Guy Simonds and other soldiers say, that is purely the business of Canada. But the underlying defence policies of Canada cannot be considered apart from the general strategy of NATO, and the strategy of NATO obviously is in the process of deep change.

It must be changed, for it is out of date. The practical question today is whether the "three wise men", Mr. Pearson among them, can devise adequate changes and whether the NATO allies will accept them.

Mr. Pearson is the leader of those elements within the alliance that propose to make NATO an economic and political, as well as a military community. This concept of a group of nations working together in their defence policies, was written into the North Atlantic Treaty, mainly on Canadian insistence, but has been largely neglected until now. If it is essential, as Mr. Pearson says and most Canadians agree, NATO has other pressing business, for even its military posture is becoming weak and obsolete.

The existing weaknesses are only too obvious—a quarrel between allies on the issue of Cyprus; the withdrawal of French ground forces from Europe to North Africa; the painfully slow growth of West Germany's projected army; Iceland's demand that United States forces evacuate that important base; and lately the indication that Britain hopes to abandon conscription not long hence and reduce its forces in Germany.

These strains within the alliance are mainly the result of Russia's new look, but a deeper problem has been inherent in NATO's strategy from the beginning.

That strategy has been based almost entirely on nuclear weapons. The ground forces in western Europe have never been regarded as much more than a temporary obstacle to a Russian advance, a plate glass window, as the soldiers say. By breaking the window Russia would trigger the massive retaliation of atomic weapons.

The West's eggs have thus been concentrated in the nuclear basket to the point where it is hardly able to fight anything but an atomic war.

The deterrent of this terrible threat must be a major factor in Russia's thinking and may have saved the West already, as Sir Winston Churchill has said, from another world war. It has also affected the thinking of the British and European peoples profoundly. They know that the only answer to a Russian advance would be a total war certain to destroy Europe, if not the world.

As Mr. Hanson Baldwin, the distinguished military editor of The New York Times, observes: "This proposal of becoming a radioactive desert quite understandably does not fill West Europe with enthusiasm. It has had a two-pronged effect: reduced European support for the Atlantic alliance and developed greater military dependence on the United States, which is the principal Western atomic power.

"It has led to a rather widely prevalent belief that if West Europe's shield is to be a United States atomic one, there is not much use for conventional forces . . . Britain's decision to end conscription at some future date and to reduce her ground forces in West Germany by at least one-half is in part the product of the West's increasing reliance on the nuclear deterrent. Inevitably this policy undermines West Germany's conventional armament and must lead, in time, to a reduction in the United States' ground forces on the continent of Europe."

Mr. Baldwin might have added that the threat of total atomic war as the West's only retort to Russia is increasingly antagonizing the neutral, uncommitted peoples of Asia. In any case, Mr. Baldwin concludes that "this nuclear strategy sells the Atlantic alliance down the river. It offers no alternative to nuclear devastation or communist conquest."

It is easy to see this problem. The answer to it so far has baffled Western statesmen. The three wise men must be wise indeed if they can find an answer. Whatever the answer may be, Canada's defence plans must be fitted into it. If those plans are in flux today so are the plans of every other NATO nation and perhaps of Russia also.

Unnecessary Rush

ALL THE RECENT TROUBLES of the St. Laurent Government—the closure, the attack on Mr. Speaker Beaudoin and the rest—arose solely out of timing of the gas pipeline. The Government incurred grave criticism (and bungled its defence) because it was determined to build the pipeline from Alberta to Winnipeg before the end of this year.

It might have been supposed, indeed, that without the pipeline Winnipeg could not get through the cold prairie winter; that without natural gas a year or so hence the whole industrial complex of Ontario would grind to a stop.

Now it appears that the pipeline project may be held up, possibly for months, by the American steel strike, which threatens the supply of pipe. But if this will inconvenience the contractors and irritate the Government, no one believes that it will seriously inconvenience any gas consumers. The nation will survive until next year without economic damage.

As we argued here from the beginning, the Government accepted political damage quite unnecessarily in its tearing haste. And its critics in Parliament did not dare to press any policy which would have caused delay in the pipeline.

Canada's 'Best Generation'

DR. BROCK CHISHOLM HAS pointed to a possible unfortunate fate for the young generation. He says its members may grow up to be no better than today's adults.

While the prospect is unflattering to parents of this age, a candid appraisal of recent history may furnish grounds for the doctor's melancholy outlook.

But the picture need not be completely grey. Some hope for the youth of today is expressed by novelist, essayist and lecturer in English at McGill, Mr. Hugh MacLennan.

Mr. MacLennan is quite prepared to accept much of the informed criticism of today's youth. He will not argue with Dr. Hilda Neatby over the "flabby" system of education being applied to young students of our time. Nor will he take exception to those athletic authorities who see no sports triumphs ahead of Canadians except in professional hockey and curling. Beyond that he'll agree that many of the young people have bad manners.

Having granted these concessions in a Maclean's magazine piece of recent date, the man who fled teaching some years ago and returned indirectly to it at McGill says he is "extremely hopeful of Canada." He is persuaded that "the generation that has grown up here since the war is likely to turn out to be the best generation this country ever had."

How does he justify his opinion?

"I do so," he writes, "because I believe that I have come to know their (young Canada's) elite, or rather a sampling of their elite, during the last four years of work with senior students at McGill University. I believe that the only way you can judge a young generation is by its elite, because the elite are the ones who are going to take control when they grow up." And, he adds, "the elite among the young people of today is superior intellectually to the elite among the young people of my time."

Mr. MacLennan thinks young Canadians have recognized new values and new yardsticks. Some of the criticism directed at them arises from the fact that they use standards of measurement foreign to their elders.

He also believes that they are "extremely moral in an extremely pleasant way. Why not, seeing that on the whole they are happy and have seldom been bullied."

Perhaps Dr. Chisholm's forebodings about the youth of today and its future might be qualified by the more optimistic attitude expressed by novelist MacLennan. Certainly the man who lectures in English at McGill has presented a study of young Canadians diametrically opposed to the widely-publicized viewpoint that the modern generation — paralleling all "modern" generations before it—is solely engaged in heading for perdition in a hot-rod or its equivalent.

When Parliament Misbehaves

CANADIANS WHO DEPLORED certain incidents in our Parliament a few weeks ago may find a morsel of comfort in an item of news dug up by the diligent Ottawa Journal. On July 3, 1931, The Journal carried this dispatch from London:

"The Speaker of the British House of Commons, Edward Fitzroy, adjourned that body in 'grave disorder.' It had been thrown into an uproar by fist fights, kicking and clawing, allegedly started by left-wingers—Labor members from the Clyde."

Our Parliament, though behaving badly, has never sunk to that level in modern times.

Warsaw Concerto

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

IN Chips for last Monday, a week ago today, there was a dreadful misprint. Usually I let misprints go . . . they are nobody's fault, and do little harm. But this was a ghastly one. In my transcript I attributed my youthful bloom and bounce to my habit of NOT eating fruit. In print the word "not" was omitted, thus making me look like a fruit-eater. And thus destroying what was meant for a mild joke.

I don't mind the loss of a poor little retarded joke. It would probably have never grown up anyway. But I'd mind very much if anyone mistook me for a fruit-guzzler . . . a sort of second Gayelord Howler. Look at the sort of creatures who eat fruit. Starting with the fruit-fly or drosophila. What do you think gives the drosophila red eyes? Fruit, every time.

Brock

OR look at the people of the Pacific islands . . . even when they do any work, it is only to get money with which to buy canned fruit, as a change from the raw stuff. They live in a vicious circle. Fruit makes them hate work, and lassitude makes them like fruit.

Look at the animals who eat fruit. The giant sloth, for instance. Even the hippopotamus has more sense than to hang upside down from a branch, dreaming about fruit. By the way, I was reading not long ago about a couple of hippos who changed their habits with their environment. On being sent to a zoo in India (in Aligarh, I believe it was), they decided that vegetarianism was O.K. for a hippo at home in Africa, but not good enough for a world-traveller and gourmet. So they ate a lot of monkeys and a lot of swans and then started on some children. After which they got into trouble, as often happens to pioneers and innovators.

CATEGORIES

I was handed the 1950-55 New Yorker album and invited to chortle over it. There were 450 cartoons. I didn't laugh at all of them. In fact, I laughed aloud at only one of them, but I smiled at several. (The one I laughed aloud at was a Steinberg drawing of a criminal's fingerprint, with a face drawn on it so the cops would have two records in one.) I was interested in many of the drawings for other reasons than laughing matters, though. I even made you a few notes about them.

During 1950-55 the most popular New Yorkers jokes seemed to be a small desert island, anywhere from eight to 15 feet across, with a man and a woman making desperate attempts to think of variations on the same joke. In every case, one of the castaways had obviously been reading the New Yorker for a long, long time.

NEXT in frequency, I should think, is the rich and goatish old man. Not only do these amorous bores follow a tedious pattern in looks and behavior, but their secretaries or chorus girls are always the same too. It is true that the stock characters in a stock situation in real life tend to duplicate each other, just as in a stock joke. But that doesn't make the stock joke any funnier, after the first quarter of a century or so. It would be possible to argue that there is a touching innocence about the New Yorker . . . it has never got over some things that have long been familiar to everyone else. But at what point does prolonged innocence become half-witted?

Here's another thing the New Yorker has never got over: it lives in a state of perpetual astonishment that many Muslims should have more than one wife. The duplication-of-wives joke gets a terrible lot of wear and tear in this volume. So does the fact that women in some Muslim countries still wear veils. There are also a good many jokes about flying carpets. One can imagine an editorial conference . . . "Can't we think of one more twist to the flying carpet, boys? One more warp for a few more woofs?" Life for a carpet-jokemaker must be very rugged.

JOKES about prison bars are very rife, especially visitors talking through a screen. Jokes about other bars are frequent, too . . . for example, you can get a lot of twists on a situation where two barkeeps are telling each other not to serve Strange Character because Strange Character is doing something strange but characteristic.

Infinite variety, of a not really varied sort, is possible with widows persuading juries; visitors from Mars; frogmen; the Indian rope trick; husbands coming home late with excuses . . . well, no, I won't object to that one too much . . . a new excuse from a late husband is rather refreshing, partly because the humor of the situation involves the character himself trying desperately to think of something new, rather than the humorist trying desperately. An artist or editor won't try the late husband joke unless he really HAS thought of something new, but he may well be tempted to give an Indian rope or a flying carpet or a desert island one more mechanical and fantastic twist than it can stand. And one more than the reader can stand.

ONE of the jokes was based on the assumption that no clergyman ever smokes . . . which is absurd. You'd think the New Yorker would know more about holy orders . . . half the jokes seem to be about monks. Well, not quite half the jokes, but a great many of the half-jokes. As I say, there is a vast and all-pervading innocence about this magazine. It is not exactly hick stuff, but "hick" is the first word that popped into my mind. Even if it is the wrong word, let us retain it, for the pleasure of imagining the look on a New Yorker editor's face on first being called a hick. Wow.

The Presidential Glow

BY STUART ALSOP, From Gettysburgh

WHEN President Eisenhower stepped out of his car here the other day, the small crowd of reporters and other onlookers craned forward with eager, somewhat mobid curiosity. For it was the first time the President had been seen, except by intimates, since he left the hospital, and everyone was anxious to see how he looked.

Alsop

As one might have expected, he looked like what he is—a vigorous man in his sixties, who has had two serious illnesses in nine months, and who has not yet recovered from the second. The President, in other words, looks very well, considering. But a heart attack and a major abdominal operation are something to consider, and the President certainly does not look quite as spry and youthful as his more enthusiastic supporters like to imagine.

And yet there is a sort of glow about him, an indefinable effulgence. It is not simply the Eisenhower glow, which he has always had. It is the presidential glow, which he has only rather recently acquired — a physical, communicable sense of immense power concentrated in one man, so that he seems, somehow larger than life.

Occupational Trait

All Presidents get the presidential glow sooner or later. Franklin D. Roosevelt emitted a positively startling effulgence, and even that humble man, Harry S. Truman, acquired a glow of authority in his second term. At any rate, President Eisenhower's presidential glow has a certain significance.

The Democrats' favorite version of the President's twice repeated decision to run despite serious illness is simple and sinister. The President, so the line goes, has been the victim of a "snow job." He is an amiable but aging and ailing man, trapped into running against his will by ruthless politicians and big business men, determined to use him for their own purposes. Is there any truth in this version of events?

There are always shades of truth and untruth in such matters. But the shrewdest observers are coming to believe that the President himself, far from being the victim of a snow job, wants very much indeed to be President for four more years.

A couple of years ago, such a prospect would have seemed to him like a prison sentence. The fact that the President thoroughly disliked his job at least during the first two years of his presidency is amply documented, for example in Robert Donovan's sympathetic but revealing book.

But in the last year, and especially, oddly enough, since his heart attack, there has been plenty of evidence that the President has come to enjoy his job thoroughly. The outpouring of affection which reached him from all over the country after his heart attack unquestionably moved him deeply. But there is certainly another reason for the President's new-found pleasure in the presidency.

The main reason for his former distaste for the presidency was a sense of unsureness in matters of domestic politics. In the 1952 campaign and for a long time thereafter, the President tended to defer humbly to the judgment of professional politicians—and as a result, for example, when he omitted Gen. George Marshall's name from his Wisconsin speech, he made some of his worst mistakes.

Good Politician

Within the last year especially, the President has discovered that he is a better politician than a whole passel of professionals. This year's administration program has been a political masterpiece. The current session of Congress has taken the real sting out of every major Democratic issue. The farm and gas bill vetoes were, moreover, politically brilliant. And although the details of the recent political conduct of the Administration may have been authored by subordinates, the general strategy was certainly dictated by the President himself.

Mastery of politics is essential to mastery of the presidency. Only since he acquired this mastery has the President emitted the true presidential glow, which derives from an inner sense of great personal authority. At any rate, the President, who frankly considered the White House an elegant jail when he was perfectly well, is now, after two serious illnesses, eager and determined to spend four more years there.

As Our Readers See It

Authorities Please

A correspondent calmly asserts that God "implanted within man the urge to worship which was to be expressed solely towards his Maker."

Surely this is the merest assertion or does your corespondent claim that it is in Holy Scripture? If the latter is the case we would like chapter and verse, please. And I would like to remind this correspondent the Bible commands, "Suffer not a witch to live." Does any reasonable or rational person now believe in witches? But a great many people did not so long ago and many elderly women were brutally burned to death on a false charge of sorcery.

"RATIONALIST."

Saanich Affairs

Your correspondent John S. Humphries of Glyn road, can't see the wood for the trees. His letter certainly emphasizes the fact that a change was needed in Saanich affairs and the electorate thought so too.

Mr. Humphries snide remarks are uncalled for. We have seen no evidence of any of the present councillors refusing to accept the raise in remuneration he mentioned. All councillors are actually underpaid for the amount of time, expense and effort they are necessarily put to.

As a school trustee and resident of Saanich in the 30s, I finally pulled up stakes and moved to a municipality where sewers and other facilities are available. At that time it was quite evident that a lot of Saanich taxpayers wouldn't even agree to pay the cost for the removal of garbage. Apparently there are some who still think that way.

Saanich has been wallowing in the doldrums for so long it is a relief to find men like Mr. Ash and others who are willing to give of their time, experience and effort to put the municipality on a proper basis of facilities and administration. North and west are the only directions Greater Victoria can grow and if Saanich won't put its own house in order, higher authorities, health and otherwise, will step in.

English, Naturally

As I mentioned in a previous letter—I generally skim over "As Our Readers See It" in your valuable paper. Recently, however, one letter caught my eye, written by one H. Staverman, in which he criticizes a previous letter I wrote commenting on the disgraceful Simpson affair.

You may tell your correspondent that "Subscriber" is well over 70, usual public school and university education like thousands of others, has been nearly all over the world, speaks five languages, also like thousands of others and has never been called narrow-minded by his worst enemy!

Regarding Mr. Staverman's comment on Princess Margaret, I consider it a piece of impertinence to comment on her private affairs—the same as it was rotten bad taste the way the press interfered.

I happen to know the inner lives of the two princesses in their younger days, for certain reasons.

I am wondering what nationality your correspondent s?

I, naturally, am English through many generations. Not my fault, Mr. Staverman, don't blame me!

SUBSCRIBER.

Parents

If one only had the whimsy of your columnist "Chips" what a field day could be had regarding your news report "Teachers Need Psychological Aid."

After reading it I was fit to be tied myself. Surely it wasn't intended to be taken seriously? The next thing you know they will be taking credit as the progenitors of our children and then parents will really be able to take the day off.

I am surprised to learn that teachers are so emotionally tied up with their pupils to such an extent and take such a load of responsibility off the gay, carefree parents. Parents do not realize their good fortune and the problem of taking care of the children for the remaining eighteen hours of the day, as well as weekends, trying to clothe, feed, and care for their emotional needs is a small one indeed.

I can only assume that it was intended to infer that there are an increasing number of "weekend" parents who try to throw the responsibility onto teachers but they are still a very small proportion and to make such a broad statement is just as distasteful as to say that all teachers are "weakend" instructors.

At all events it is not the privilege of teachers to designate our children as "human animals" and if we do call our children "little monsters" at times it is done affectionately and with understanding. I would be very much interested in having a teacher or teachers elaborate on this theory and perhaps undo some of the unfortunate implications which ill serves the teaching profession which is an old and honorable one and is respected on the whole by all fair minded parents.

CCF—Conscience Clear

The present day vogue is to claim that the CCF is dogmatic and unchanging in its platform and in the same breath decry the Saskatchewan government for being "CCF without socialism." Mr. Bruce Hutchison's observation that we have a new economic system resulting from the depression, the Second World War and the Cold War must have come out of long hours of meditation and research.

1. is obvious to all thinking voters that the days of capitalism versus socialism, when referring to the means of economic control, ended well before 1939. Thus, an adaptation of the means of attaining a just and peaceful society to an up-to-date-program is perfectly consistent. It should be understood that socialization of industries has always been a means and never an end. Would it be too much to suggest that Mr. Hutchison accept a CCFer's definition of the CCF and democratic socialism rather than build his own and cleverly proceed to destroy it?

I would further suggest that the CCF record in the House of Commons and the work of Premier Douglas and the Saskatchewan government provides Canadians with a very good picture of the CCF. In Saskatchewan there is not a watered-down Liberal regime as Mr. Hutchinson implies, but a government that promptly fulfilled its election promises, that introduced an extended program of public ownership and above all a government that has consistently put the will of the working man and the farmer first and has had a record free of corruption and graft.

Nationally the CCF is the only party with a clear conscience in decrying the destruction of Parliament by the Liberals and in pushing a National Health Plan. No one in his right mind can deny that Canada is prosperous. However, this prosperity must be channelled to those who worked and fought to build the wealth that is ours. A sound health insurance scheme, clearance of slums in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, assistance to depressed areas of the world and the solidification of the present prosperity should be our goals not the desires of the real estate operators and the stock market speculators. Today we see the spectacle of government decaying rapidly after 20 years in office. The Conservatives are no alternative.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK By RUTH ENKE

Private Hate

I'M NOT what you would call a violent woman, but I'm rapidly developing an almost homicidal hatred for people who try to sell me things over the phone. I hate them specially when, at the end of a long hot day, the ringing of the phone brings me in from out of doors.

Ruth

And that's what happened to me on Monday evening.

I'd just done the last of the chores and gone outside when the phone rang.

"Is that the So-and-So residence?" an unknown voice enquired.

"Yes, it is," I said, mystified.

"Ah, "I said to myself, "Saanich. Rising population. Crowded schools. I must do my bit as a good citizen and give them what help I can."

"Have you any children in your household?" the voice went on.

"Three," I said.

"Their ages?"

"Seventeen and fourteen," I said. "But the fourteen-year-olds are twins."

"Your husband's occupation?" said the Voice.

That's when the old hackles began to rise. "What kind of survey is this?" I asked. "Who is it being done for?"

"It's the Something-Something Encyclopedia," said the Voice. "We're making a survey to find the households with children so our salesmen can call on you."

"Thank you so much," I said. "We already have an encyclopedia and are entirely satisfied."

And I hung up feeling rude, ungracious, and thoroughly cross.

* * *

It seems to me that this habit of selling over the phone is growing.

It seems to me a rotten world when commercial outfits can use the phone—for which WE pay—to push their particular goods.

It seems to me thoroughly dishonest to use an approach that has a community-conscious sound.

To me, it's a disgusting violation of personal privacy for any firm to ring up and, giving a false impression, to ask questions that are none of that firm's business.

Once this type of salesmanship is accepted as normal, there's no end to the sort of grilling that private citizens might have to take.

Because this kind of technique could be applied to almost anything.

Let's think about cars, for instance.

"Is that so and so's residence?"

"This is an automotive survey." (There's a good lead. The traffic problem concerns us all. There's a community-conscious slant to that one. And, in this modern age, the word "survey" has an official, scientific ring.)

"How many cars do you have in your household?"

"What are their makes and dates?"

"What is the family income?"

You see, it doesn't take much brain. Any firm can think up a spiel if it has gall enough, and is sufficiently lacking in good manners and good taste. Just for the fun of it, think of the approach you'd use if you were selling (a) children's shoes, (b) foundation garments, (c) vegetables, (d) any darned thing you can think of.

* * *

Nearly all of us, at times, complain about the pressures of modern life.

Well, this is one pressure that I can definitely do without. I can also do without that particular brand of encyclopedia.

In fact, if ever I see it in any store, or advertised in print, my sales resistance will be phenomenal. I wouldn't buy it on a bet.

And THAT'S what happens when you go too far with pushing other people around.

NO HELL IN ENGLAND QUIZ GAL WAS RIGHT

ROME (AP)—The Italian state radio and television network announced Sunday that history expert Giovanna Ferrara was right. There is no Hell in England.

The 23-year-old Italian coed thus will get another chance next Thursday to win $5,000,000 lire ($8,000) on Italy's popular TV quiz, "Double or Nothing."

Last Thursday night quiz master Mike Bongiorno asked her to give the "three H" motto of Gen. Howe's British troops when they evacuated Boston in 1776. Each H was supposed to stand for a town in England.

The answer was "Hell, Hull and Halifax."

Giovanna said Hell meant something else. After a study by experts, the network agreed. So Giovanna is back in business.

YOUR HEALTH By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Smallpox Vaccination

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation

In many cities health authorities have to keep battling with a large group of people—well supplied with able lawyers—who do not want their children to be vaccinated against small pox. Often their claims are that such vaccination never was any good, that it is harmful, and that today it is unnecessary. Anyone with the slightest knowledge of the history of medicine knows what a wonderful gift to humanity vaccination was. In the old days before 1798 everyone had to have smallpox, and millions died of it. Then came Dr. Jenner's great discovery, and almost 100 per cent of the people all over the world who were vaccinated were immediately protected, and the awful epidemics stopped.

Dr. Alvarez

Few people in the United States know that the American Indians were largely wiped out, not by the Western advance of the whites, but by smallpox. In a big library, anyone who is interested can find a book written some years ago by a man and his wife—anti-vaccinationists—who started hunting for data to prove their claim that vaccination was worse than useless. They were so overwhelmed by the facts they encountered that they became strong proponents of vaccination. They wrote a book telling of the terrible happenings when smallpox rapidly wiped out whole tribes of American Indians. Only when the Indians were vaccinated were they protected.

COULD BE TERRIBLE

It is true that today in this country the danger from smallpox to an individual is not great, but just let a generation of unprotected young persons grow up, and we are likely to see terrible epidemics raging again through the land.

Opponents of vaccination say that if smallpox were to become epidemic it would be mild and would not kill. This may be, but if these people had ever seen an epidemic of black smallpox start up, as I did once, and if they had seen it kill or nearly kill half of the men and women struck down, they would not be trusting to mildness in the disease when it comes.

My reason for writing on this subject today is the recent report from Iran that smallpox, previously epidemic in Isfahan province, has just been wiped out entirely by the vaccination of 750,000 people. Today, with airplanes bringing into our ports each day hundreds of persons who, the day before, were in a country in which smallpox is always smouldering, health authorities must be particularly careful to keep our people vaccinated.

As I said recently, at last the leadership in psychiatry is being taken out of the hands of the arm-chair philosophers who, for the last 50 years, have been having fun, vying with each other to see who could spin the craziest theories about the sexual and infantile origin of the psychoses. Today, people are beginning to laugh at these theories and to crack jokes about them. One hears of the psychiatrist who, meeting another, said, "You're fine; how am I?" Or, one hears of the psychiatrist who, meeting another, said casually, "How are you?" The man greeted turned to his wife, puzzled, apprehensive and hostile, and said, "I wonder what he meant by that?"

But, joking aside, as I said recently, a new type of psychiatry has arisen, fostered by laboratory research men, physiologists and chemists, physicists, brain surgeons and neurologists, all of them real scientists who have little patience with the many theories and squabbles of the analytic school. They are now using the methods of science to get definite answers to the question, "How does the brain work in health and disease?"

At last there should be a sharp distinction drawn between non-scientific theorizers and really scientific research workers. At last psychiatry should take its place again as a branch of scientific medicine, closely integrated with the other branches. At last many psychiatrists can again take an honored seat in scientific assemblies. At last some psychiatric journals may stop publishing almost unintelligible gobbledly-gook, and will again publish good articles in clear-cut, intelligible English.

POISON HURTS BRAIN

As an example of what is now being done, several groups of scientists have shown that the urine of persons with schizophrenia—the commonest form of psychosis — contains amounts much larger than normal of certain indole derivates. This suggests that these mentally ill persons have some poison in their body which is injuring their brain. Already it has been found that by giving to schizophrenics a diet lacking certain "building blocks" that contain indole, the amount of this substance in the urine can be reduced to normal. Unfortunately, as yet, the patients so treated have not been made better, but a way has been opened up into the field, and this is what is hopeful.

At last, the thousands of persons in this country who have wealth, and perhaps because of some nervous disease in their family would like to give money for research in psychiatry, can now safely give it. Such money well expended may some day solve some of the problems involved in eradicating the commonest and most distressing of all diseases—psychosis.

HOME GARDEN By HILDA BEASTALL

Rock Gardens Gay Even in Dry Season

The small rock garden, dry wall or sandy bank should be colorful and interesting during the summer.

Hilda

Because these spots are usually situated in full sun, too many of us are inclined to abandon them for the dry season.

The plants I shall mention will like to be planted in sifted compost, and mulched with more compost during July after a thorough watering. With other plants, attention to individual needs of lime or peat soil will be necessary, but good drainage will be present.

There are several kinds of androsace (rock jasmine) which will flower for weeks. Grey foliage is complemented with pink bloom.

Tufts of dwarf armeria (thrift) will produce pink or white flowers over a long period, while in the dianthus family are members which will add crimson, rose and white over the whole season. Dianthus deltoides has all these colors, and will thrive on ledges and banks. D. plumarius makes large mats of grey foliage, with scented flowers in June, and a few in July.

Platycodon (balloon flower) in lavender-blue and white are tuberous rooted perennials coming into flower now. Their wide bells facing upward are freely produced on 10-inch stems.

For dainty masses of fairy size bloom nothing can beat Gypsophila repens, the trailing baby's breath. The color is pink, and the sprays large enough to cut for sweet pea bouquets.

Nepeta mussini (catmint) and Thalictrum kiusianum (dwarf thalictrum) will contribute lavender blue, and mauve respectively, while at the base of a dry slope one can always plant tubers of brilliant Tigridia (Mexican shell or tiger flower) for summer color.

Permanent Committee Formed To Boost Power Board 'Right'

COBBLE HILL—Members of the delegation that asked the cabinet Friday to have the B.C. Power Commission take over all electrical power projects in the province have formed themselves into a permanent committee to promote their proposal.

"We will meet in Nanaimo tonight to arrange a series of public meetings," said George E. Bonner, chairman of the delegation and president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, that sponsored the cabinet visit.

It is hoped to have the first meeting in Duncan June 23, and others as soon as possible after that date at Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Courtenay and Campbell River.

Plan to promote the power commission's taking over all the province's power projects arose out of a public meeting in Nanaimo June 14, called to discuss the revised rate schedule of the BCPC.

With Mr. Bonner on the committee are Mayor Earle Westwood and Ralph Reading, president of the Mid-Island Electrical Association, Nanaimo; Mayor Loran Jordan, Ald. W. C. Hamilton, H. C. Kindall, and J. C. Moore, secretary of IWA Local 1-85, all of Port Alberni; H. Harris, Courtenay, and Eric Smith, secretary of the ratepayers' association.

In the interior considerable cloud lies over the ridges of the southeast and this will build higher during the afternoon and give a few showers or thunderstorms. Elsewhere sunny skies will push temperatures a little higher than Sunday.

AL PENNANT QUESTION

Who's to Stop Yanks Now?

By the Associated Press

How about a split season in the American League? With the New York Yankees 10½ games out front, they can start the second half any day now.

With the exception of Boston and Baltimore, the rest of the league has taken off in a southerly direction while the Yanks pile it on. Chicago dropped all the way to third place and Cleveland struggled back into second only because the White Sox have dropped eight straight.

Perhaps Boston will make a second half challenge like last year but they'll have to learn how to beat the Yanks first.

Casey Stengel's runaway Yanks shaded Chicago twice Sunday afternoon 2-1 behind Whitey Ford and 6-5 in 10 innings in the second game on Hank Bauer's two-run pinch single. Cleveland clubbed Boston 10-7 in the first game with Same Mele driving in four runs but the Red Sox got even 3-1 in the second as Dave Sisler and Ike Delock teamed up with a two-hitter.

Baltimore stormed past Detroit into fifth place by bumping the Tigers twice 7-2 and 6-3 on complete game jobs by Ray Moore and Hal Brown. Kansas City split two at Washington, winning the first 8-0 on a six-hitter by Wally Burnette, just purchased from Denver, but losing the second 7-3 when the Senators clubbed Bobby Shantz in a six-run rally.

The National League race remained tight with Milwaukee still leading Cincinnati by two full games and Brooklyn five games back. The leading Braves used walks and Pittsburgh errors to take a pair 3-2 and 4-1 while Cincinnati went into extra innings twice to beat New York 4-3 in 10 innings on Bob Thurman's pinch single and 4-3 in 11 innings on Rocky Bridges' single.

CARL HITS TWO

Two homers by Carl Furillo, one with the bases loaded, helped Brooklyn to a 10-8 victory over Chicago in a rowdy game that turned into a beanball contest in the sixth inning. Manager Walter Alston of the Brooks yanked pitcher Don Newcombe, fearing a 10-day suspension for his ace for throwing at a batter. Newcombe had been hit by a pitch and told Alston, "if they throw at me, I'll throw at them."

Stan Musial surged into the National batting lead at .327 with seven hits in nine at bats, including three doubles, a triple and a homer as St. Louis split with Philadelphia.

LITTLE LEAGUERS

Frank's No-Hitter Not Really Needed

Frank Lezect really didn't have to, but he pitched a no-hitter Sunday at Bullen park for Yarows, anyway.

Yarrows, running up the highest score in Victoria's minor leagues this season, bombed Merchants, 28-0, in a four-inning game, to tie for second-half honors with Lions and Pirates in the Esquimalt-Vic West Little League.

Yarrows will meet Lions Tuesday night at 6.30 at Bullen Park, with the winner meeting Pirates Thursday for the second-half championship.

IN FINAL

In Babe Ruth League playoff action Sunday at Beacon Hill Park, Menzies defeated Tillicums, 8-3, and UCT swamped Eagles, 17-7, to win their respective series.

Menzies will meet the winner of the Optimists-McCall Davey game Tuesday on Wednesday night in a best-of-three series for the right to meet UCT in the final.

At Little League Park, Oddfellows defeated North Kiwanis, 4-1, and Gyros nipped Rotary, 1-0, in an extra inning, in National Little League action.

Oak Bay Police took Cosmopolitans, 7-5, and Victoria Police bumped Jaycees, 9-2, in Pony League games at Carnarvon Park, while in North Kiwanis League action, Sidney defeated ANAF Vets, 4-3, at Sidney, and Duncan swept a doubleheader from Hagels, 15-5, 10-0, at Duncan.

Another no-hitter popped up in North Kiwanis League action at Athletic Park. Don McIntosh blanked Pages all the way across the board as Eagles won in five innings, 15-0. In the second game of the doubleheader, Eagles won again, 5-1.

Bedard Top Dog In Quebec Tennis

MONTREAL (CP) — Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., Canada's top-ranked tennis player, polished off fellow Davis cupper Don Fontana of Toronto 7-5, 6-0, 6-0 Sunday to win the men's single crown at the Quebec open championships.

Bedard also teamed with Fontana to defeat the Vancouver pair of Paul Willey and Lawrence Barclay 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 for the men's double title. He joined Eleanor Dodge of Montreal to defeat Willey and Mrs. Hanna Siadek of Montreal 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the mixed doubles final.

Mrs. Sladek, top-ranked woman player in the country, easily disposed of Mrs. Louis Brown of Toronto in the women's finals, 6-2, 6-3.

Mel Knew 'All Right' About His No-Hitter

BOSTON (AP)—Mell Parnell, one of the greatest southpaws ever to hurl for Boston Red Sox, gained a niche among baseball's immortals Saturday with a no-hit 4-0 triumph over Chicago White Sox.

In a game delayed by rain an hour and eight minutes, and for which he warmed up twice, Parnell faced only 28 batters, one over the regulation distance.

He walked two and another reached on an error. Four of the White Sox struck out and only five of them hit balls to the outfield.

Parnell made no bones about knowing he had a no-hitter as was plainly evident on the last play of the game.

Big Walt Dropo, an erstwhile teammate, was the final batter, pinch-hitting for Jim Rivera, a left-handed swinger. Walt swung and banged a hard bouncer right at Parnell who grabbed it and beat Dropo in a race for the bag for the final putout.

Among the first to greet him in the clubhouse was owner Tom Yawkey and Joe Cronin, Sox general manager.

Big Joe, a hall-of-famer himself, expressed the club's feelings in a most concrete way—a $500 bonus with the explanation that, to meet baseball law, Mel would have to sign a new contract to accept it.

When asked in the clubhouse if he knew he had a no-hitter going, Mel replied:

"Let's not kid around. I knew it.

Casper's Two-Year Hunt Rewarded With Victory

San Diego Pro Captures Labatt Open Golf Tourney

BOISCHATEL, Que. (CP)—Bill Capser Jr., a pleasant, 25-year-old San Diego golfer, went fishing today to rest up after winning the fourth annual $26,800 Open tournament and the Labatt trophy.

It was his first pro-circuit victory since turning professional two years ago.

Richer by $5,000, Casper said Sunday after finishing the 72-hole route in 274 "I've been waiting a long time for this to happen, especially this year. I wanted just one victory so I could qualify for the Tam O'Shanter tournament and take a rest."

Casper's four rounds of 68-68-67-71 were 14 strokes under the Royal Quebec Golf Club par and proved two strokes better than Jimmy Demaret's 276. Demaret, who plays out of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., put on a great show down the back nine and his eagle three at the 14th almost saw him catch the young Californian.

PLAYED IT SAFE

Casper started the final round Sunday at 203, three strokes to the good over the field. Starting down the last nine he had increased the lead to six strokes over Demaret.

Casper said he "started playing it safe," while Demaret came on fast with a three-under par 34. Casper went over par at two holes and had a 38. Al Besselink of Grossinger, N.Y., was third with 277.

Ted Kroll, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was in the running until the last round when he took a one-over-par 73 and had to settle for fourth-place tie with Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio.

LEONARD UP HIGH

The $26,800 Open, starring a top field of pro golfers, saw Canada's Stan Leonard place high among the leaders. Leonard, from Lachute, Que., had a four-day total of 280 and was tied there with Tommy Bolt of Houston, Texas, Bo Wininger of Odessa, Texas, and San Francisco's Bob Rosburg.

Other Canadians to finish in the money were Lyle Crawford of Vancouver, with 283, Gerry Kesselring of Toronto with 287, and Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver with 290.

Toronto's Al Balding had a four-day score of 301, good for a share in the $1,800 reserved for Canadian prizes.

Bob Kidd Captures PNGA Title

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Bob Kidd, enigmatic Vancouver shotsmith, packed away his proudest trophy today after winning the Pacific Northwest Amateur golf championship Saturday in a smashing 5 and 4 decision over Seatle's Erv Parent.

Carrying the colors of the host club, Kidd swung his magic clubs for a nine-under-par score and became the second Canadian to win the top honors in the past four years. Bob Fleming of Victoria was the 1953 champion.

Few respected forecasters predicted 39-year-old Parent would return home without the championship as he entered the final 36-hole playoff Saturday morning with his clubs still warm from swinging a startling upset and knocking out defending champion Dick Yost, 1 up, in an all-Seattle semi-final late Friday.

An upset occurred in the all-American women's finals.

United States western junior champion Joane Gundkson of Seattle won an almost equally smashing 4 and 2 decision over her country's national junior champ, Carole Jo Kabler of Sutherlin, Ore.

Parent sidelined Yost 1 up on the final green in their 36-hole semi-final Friday.

Kidd posted a similar 1-up decision over fellow Vancouverite Len Morgan with a smashing come-from-behind performance that easily overshadowed Yost's defeat.

At 17, Miss Gunderson is the youngest person to win the women's PNGA title.

In the first flight finals, Clarence Smith, Seattle, overwhelmed Brian Copp 7 and 6, and Mrs. Helen Cleat, Vancouver, defeated Sheila Ross, also of Vancouver, 4 and 3.

Barbara, Sharon Gain Tennis Semis

Sharon Whittaker and Barbara Woolison became the first semi-finalists in the Victoria City Tennis championships by winning their ladies' singles matches at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club Sunday.

Miss Whittaker defeated Jenny Crester, while Miss Woolison downed Norna Horner.

In men's singles, George Bishop moved into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-0 win over Don Thompson.

Play will continue tonight and all this week in the tournament.

Tonight's draw:

Andrews Wins Shoot

AB. G. Andrews, RCN, shot a 90x100 at Heal's Range Saturday to win the weekly Victoria and District Rifle Association shoot.

S/Sgt. Dave McCready also shot 90x100, but Andrews' better score at 600 yards gave him first place.

HAVANA—Cuban Kid Pichique, 142¾, stopped Al Villafarra, 144¾, New Orleans, 2.

Billy's a Busy Fellow Defending Mat Title

Whipper Billy Watson's championship wrestling tour will stop off at Victoria's Memorial arena Tuesday for a one-night stand.

Watson, recent victor over Lou Thesz for the professional heavyweight wrestling title, will make one of his nightly "defences" in the feature match of the weekly wrestling show.

This time he will take on hard-boiled Haggerty, who has been trying to pry the title off Watson all the way across the United States and Canada.

For those who want a bit more than championship wrestling, former world's heavyweight boxing champion Jack Sharkey will be guest referee.

Preliminary collisions on the card will have The Mighty Ursus meeting Tex McKenzie; Stu Harte meeting Leo Numa and Count Gardenia meeting Dave Pye.

Curtain goes up at 8.30.

Nashua, Swaps, Swoons Son Do What's Expected of Them

NEW YORK (CP)—Nashua, Swaps and Swoon's Son won three of the richest purses in U.S. racing Saturday. All were favorites. Nashua toyed with eight rivals for half a mile, then drew away for an easy 3½-length victory in the $114,400 Monmouth Park Handicap and slapped another $78,200 into the bank of the Leslie Combs II syndicate.

It was one of Nashua's easiest victories, although he carried 129 pounds and ran on a muddy track. The Castle Rock Farm's Mr. First finished second and R. C. Markus' Mielleux was third, another five lengths behind.

The four-year-old son of Nasrullah-Segula raised his total winning to $1,236,965.

Swaps continued his record-breaking by setting a track record to win the $162,100 Gold Cup Handicap. The big California four-year-old led Llangollen Farms' Mister Gus and Porterhouse across the finish line in 1.58 3-5, just 2-5 of a second shy of the world record for 1¼ miles set by the late Charles S. Howard's great Irish horse, Noor, in 1950.

Swoon's Son fortified his bid for three-year-old honors with a sizzling stretch drive for a 1½-length triumph in the $158,825 Arlington classic and a slow time of 1.36 4-5.

The E. Gay Drake's sensational bay colt remained unbeaten for the season in registering his fifth straight victory under the expert handling of jockey Dave Erb.

Second place went to a 50-to-1 shot, Ben A. Jones. A neck behind in third place was the only filly in the field of eight, Clairborne Farm's Doubledogdare who set the early pace in the mile race. Fabius was fourth.

Arrows 10, Gorge Hotel 7

The complacency that comes with being the best around proved Gorge Hotel's undoing at Central park Sunday night.

Leading the three-team Victoria Senior A Men's Softball League by 8½ games, the Hotelmen committed five errors in one inning Sunday to lose embarrassingly to last-place Arrows, 10-7.

It was only their fourth loss in 23 games this season, and Arrows' fourth win.

Hotelmen's fatal inning was the sixth, when Arrows scored five times on just one hit and those five big bobbles. Gordy Jones at second base was the leading bungler, committing two miscues.

Arrows gave an indication of things to come in the fifth, scoring three times on one single and three walks by pitcher Marc Cunningham.

Fiori Goegan hit a two-run homer in the third for the losers, and Bernie Clarkson did the same in the eighth.

Arrows will be looking for their second straight win tonight when they take on Chinese Students at 6.45 in a "ladies' night" contest. Thursday will be "fan appreciation night." Holders of tickets from tonight's, Tuesday's or Thursday's games will be eligible for prizes.

Polyettes Take second

Victoria Polyettes split a doubleheader in Vancouver over the weekend, but in the process sewed up second place in the Intercity Major Women's Softball League.

John Oster's Polyettes shut out Mutuals, 5-0, Saturday to nail down second place, and lost to Roys, 11-7, Sunday.

In Sunday's game, Roys banged out 13 hits off the usually stingy Ruth Oster and Jocelyn Richmond as they scored in every inning but the second and sixth.

Bev Manton allowed seven hits for the victory.

Saturday, Polyettes had it more their own way as Miss Richmond spun a no-hitter to lead the Victoria girls to their victory over Mutuals.

Carr's Clutch Hitting Too Much for Farmers

Locals Lose Double Bill To Tacoma Club

Farmers 4-5, Tacoma 7-7

When Tacoma Cheney Studs make their second Northwest International Baseball League visit in a row to Athletic park next Saturday, a stocky, intense colored lad by the name of Luther Carr will receive more than one awed glance from both Farmer Construction and the fans.

For Carr, 19 years old, five feet, 10 inches, 190 pounds, gave everybody concerned at Athletic Park Saturday an exhibition of clutch power hitting that will be long remembered.

Coming up in the ninth inning of both contests of the day-night doubleheader, Carr powered two vital home runs over the centre-field fence to give Studs a sweep of the series, 7-4, 7-5.

With two out and bases loaded in the nightcap and Farmer's ace, Bill Garner, nursing a 5-3 lead, Carr hit a grand-slam home run right past the flagpole in centre field to overshadow his three-run homer of the first game.

In the opener, Farmers had a 4-2 edge entering the ninth, but a costly error by losing pitcher Bill Prior and Carr's homer produced five big runs for the youthful, hard-hitting Studs.

BOYD GOT ONE, TOO

Charlie Boyd hit his fourth homer of the season for Farmers in the first game, while Monte Geiger also hit a homer for Studs in the second game.

The round-trippers were Carr's sixth and seventh in 10 league games with the Studs.

SUSIE'S TURN TO LOSE IN NET DUEL WITH ANN

Victoria's Susie Butt found it was her turn to lose Sunday to Vancouver's Ann Barclay in Portland.

The highly rated rivals met in the junior women's singles final of the Oregon state tennis championships and Miss Barclay won, 7-5, 6-3.

Five C's Move Up In District Cricket

Five C's crept to within three points of second-place Incogs in the Victoria and District Cricket Association standings Sunday by defeating last-place Alcos by six wickets at Windsor park.

A. Griffin, with 39 runs, was the best batsman for the winners, while M. Fisher, with five wickets for 14 runs, led the bowlers. B. Twamley batted 34 runs for Alcos.

Saturday, Cowichan maintained its undefeated record and its two-point spread over Incogs by drawing with them at Duncan.

Albions, meanwhile, moved into a fourth-place tie by downing Oak Bay by six wickets at Windsor Park.

Mike Can Drive Too; Wins Feature Race

Mike Newton, whose devil-may-care handling of his stock car has given him a "bad man" label at Western Speedway, showed he can drive, too, by winning the 25-lap main event Saturday in the weekly stock car meet.

It was Mike's first main event victory in two years.

He took over from top drivers Dick Varley and Gerry Sylvester early in the race, and drove skilfully in front of the pack to win handily.

Phil Lambrick, who was going after his third straight main event victory, a record reached by Dick Willoughby earlier in the season, finished well back.

He had to settle for a victory in the second heat race while finishing second to Willoughby in the trophy dash.

A crowd of 1,500 watched the show.

Results:

First heat—1, Dick Varley; 2, Lamont Brooks; 3, Ray Pottinger.
Second heat—1, Phil Lambrick; 2, Carman Peacoe; 3, Jack Rumley.
Third heat—1, Digger O'Dell; 2, Mike Newton; 3, Dave Hansen.
Fourth heat—1, Dick Willoughby; 2, Ray Bell; 3, Dave Cooper.
Trophy dash—1, Willoughby; 2, Lambrick; 3, Ken Dobbie.
Main event—1, Newton; 2, Varley; 3, Gerry Sylvester.

WJHL Suspends Play

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—Secretary-manager George Vogan of the Western Junior Hockey League announced Sunday the league has decided to suspend operations.

Mr. Vogan said the decision was taken following a league meeting Sunday.

Nanaimo 18, Salmonbellies 9

NANAIMO (CP) — Nanaimo Timbermen, inter-city lacrosse leaders, stretched their margin here Saturday night by downing the rookie-laden New Westminster Salmonbellies, 18-9.

Bobby Allan, scoring leader, added six points to give him 92 for the season and he is well on his way to break Jim McNulty's record of last year. Allan has nine games left to pick up 18 points, equalling McNulty's 110.

Don Sherry was right behind Allan with five points.

Salmonbellies had seven rookies playing their first game in inter-city lacrosse and they held the T-men to a 1-1 tie at the end of the first period. Half-time score was 2-1 for the Timbermen, lowest half-time score in the inter-city boxla this season.

The Timbermen broke loose in the third period slamming seven goals past Delmonico while the Salmonbellies picked up four. Nanaimo played wide open in the final period getting nine goals to New Westminster's four.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Lynn Allen, age 12, of Waxahachie, Texas, for her question:

How do you yodel?

Yodel practice may be very upsetting to friends and neighbors. So get some records of expert yodelling and take your phonograph off into the vast outdoors of Texas. When you are practiced enough to entertain you may want a costume like those worn in the yodelling territory of the Swiss and Tyrolean Alps. White blouse with gay embroidery, colored skirt and fancy bonnet. Boys wear gayly embroidered suspenders, shoes tough enough for mountain hiking, a cane and a jaunty hat with a jaunty little feather.

In the Alps, the mountaineers set the air dancing with their echoing yodels. Shepherds yodel to each other from slope to slope. For the yodel voice trick carries well in mountain country. Yodel comes from a German word meaning jubilant. You will see why when you listen to the merry notes swooping up and down on your records.

A yodeller will tell you that anybody can yodel. You need good lungs, a strong voice and the ability to carry a tune. And, of course, practice. In yodel country, practice starts early. The first efforts are as horrible as your own will be. Girls can yodel. But boys are usually better yodelers than girls.

Every boy goes through a yodel stage, though he may not call it that. At the proper time, his voice changes from a boy's to a man's. The deep man's voice may arrive suddenly and startle everyone by taking over in the middle of a sentence. It does not arrive to stay. A fellow needs time to handle a medium deep voice. Meantime he swoops between very low and very high. And that is the whole trick to yodeling.

The yodel singer swings his voice fast between very low and very high. The switch-about creates a freakish vocal effect, very cheerful and pleasant when done properly. Actually, there is no freakishness to the trick. We train our voice to keep within a middle register. The very high and very low notes get rusty from lack of use.

Your speaking voice can go down to a lower register or up to a higher one. You can sing up and down a scale of notes. Deep singing is made with the chest voice. High singing is made with the head voice. Start yodel practice by switching fast between your highest and lowest notes.

When a boy's voice changes, he may lose his choir soprano voice. But he can still sing high notes in a register called falsetto. This is not a false range. The throat and tongue lift the notes high in the mouth. A girl can do the same thing.

The trick is to master the fast switch from chest to falsetto voice. The yodeller uses tongue and pallet to control the high notes and swoop them around. There is plenty of open space in Texas in which to practice. Remember, Andy wants no complaints from the beautiful city of Dallas when you start your yodelling.

(OSCAR CLASS) "THE GREAT LOCOMOTIVE CHASE" (Dominion) — Without gilding the lily or being otherwise ridiculous about the matter, Walt Disney must be considered to be the master story-teller of the 20th century. He is to today what Hans Christian Andersen and Peter Grimm were to yesterday. And more—much more.

In the realm of fantasy he has given us such wondrous characters as Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse, Pluto and all the gentle people of his cartoon world. He has taken the stories of the masters, such as "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "Peter Pan" and served them up to today's children all shiny and glistening, breath-takingly new.

★ ★ ★

THROUGH THE MAGIC of his cameras Disney has done what none of them has done. He has brought nature to the world in a way few realized nature existed. These were his fabulous "Living Desert," "Nature's Half-Acre," "The Vanishing Prairie," "Beaver Valley," "The Olympic Elk," "Bear Country," "Water Birds" and so on.

In "The Great Locomotive Chase," Disney tells the true life story of James J. Andrews, a Union spy believed by the South to be a gallant blockade runner. Through a fine story by Lawrence Edward Watkin the Civil War period lives again. It is an exciting, tumultuous play and yet only Disney could dare omit a love story and keep the brawling and bloodshed to the absolute minimum.

★ ★ ★

ALSO, JUST AS HE DID with his first true-life story, "Davy Crockett," Disney stuck to history and kills off his hero at the end.

As Andrews, Fess Parker (who also played Crockett) is altogether excellent with his restrained, thoughtful style of acting. With an handful of Union soldiers dressed as civilians he steals a southern train and heads deep into Dixie with the avowed intentions of carrying out sabotage on the way back. However, he meets a relentless pursuer in young conductor William A. Fuller, played superbly by Jeffrey Hunter, who gives chase in another locomotive.

It is the chase that gives the picture its suspense and thrills. Surely there has never been anything like it on the screen. And such authenticity. The rolling stock, made for the purpose and borrowed from the museums, is as nostalgic as an old tintype. To add further flavor extras were drafted from the locales in which it all took place.

This is a picture for the entire family. Everyone will be thrilled and, what's more, everyone will learn something—an unbeatable combination in any form of entertainment.

'THE WONDER IS THAT IT IS SO RARE'

Virgin Birth Labelled 'Life Without Father'

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON—American tourists, the trouble in Cyprus, the credit squeeze, all are being forgotten as Britons follow with fascinated interest the story of a 30-year-old mother who claims to have produced a daughter by virgin birth.

"Virgin birth" has suddenly chased "automation" from the headlines and has sent thousands of Britons scurrying for dictionaries to look up "parthenogenesis" (from the Greek, meaning "reproduction without sexual union").

Authentication of the mother's claim to have brought forth an unfathered child will mean that another male bastion has fallen without a struggle. "'Life without father,' is the Manchester Guardian's phrase for it.

Cause of all this fuss is pretty, brunette Mrs. Emmimarie Jones, who claims that her daughter, 11-year-old Monica, was conceived without the aid of a man. In the ordinary course of events Mrs. Jones' claim might have been dismissed as an hallucination, but Mrs. Jones has submitted to a rigorous set of medical tests, including blood tests and a delicate skin-grafting operation.

ONE OF 19

After six months of such testing, a research team of eminent British doctors has given its verdict: "We have been unable to prove that any man took part in the creation of this child. All our results are consistent with a case of virgin birth. We found nothing in the child that could have come from anyone but the mother.

Actually, Mrs. Jones was one of 19 mothers who came forward with claims of virgin birth in response to an appeal from the Sunday Pictorial (circulation 5,000,000), which advertises itself as "the newspaper for the young in heart."

The claims were quickly narrowed down to four mothers, and of the four only Mrs. Jones and her daughter were found to tally on blood tests and saliva tests.

My quest for more information on virgin births brought me to a dark, grubby, ill-smelling laboratory in London's University College, where Dr. Helen Spurway, a lecturer on eugenics, has been conducting experiments with a small, live-bearing fish known as the guppy.

GUPPY RESULTS

Dr. Spurway, who is the wife of scientist J. B. S. Haldane, has isolated female guppies from males at birth, and of these spinster guppies 92 have borne fatherless fish, which in turn have given virgin birth to daughters. In fact, Dr. Spurway's laboratory is a sort of immaculate, self-contained woman's world from which males are rigidly excluded.

The significance of Dr. Spurway's findings is that the guppies are the first vertebrates in which virgin birth has been discerned, and this has led her to expect that virgin birth could occur in human beings. Her views may be summed up in the following question-and-answer:

Q. If virgin birth is possible in human beings how can it be recognized?

A. It would be recognized by a woman who regarded her pregnancy as incompatible with her sexual history. Also, the offspring would be a daughter, since in human beings it is the male who produces the two kinds of sex-determining cells.

Q. Is there any test for virgin birth?

A. Yes, a skin-grafting operation should verify it. So far no piece of human skin transplanted between two different human beings has survived indefinitely, unless there was other evidence that they were monozygotic twins, that is, twins from the same egg.

Q. Would the skin from a virgin birth child be expected to survive if grafted onto the mother?

A. Yes, for the child could have obtained no antigens which the mother did not possess. The graft would introduce no alien substances into the mother which would produce immunity reactions in her.

(Note: A skin graft from Mrs. Emmimarie Jones to her daughter remained healthy for six weeks, while a graft from the daughter to the mother was shed in approximately four weeks.)

Q. Would a virgin birth child bear a striking resemblance to her mother?

A. Not necessarily. While the child could have obtained no genetic material except from her mother, it need not be a duplicate of the mother.

Q. How frequently might one expect virgin births to occur in human beings?

A. Dr. Spurway refuses to commit herself on the frequency of virgin birth, but other biologists have suggested that one woman in 1,600,000 might produce a fatherless child.

Q. Has virgin birth been found in other animals?

A. Yes, in every major group of animals, including mammals. There have been at least two series of experiments on rabbits in which virgin births are claimed. It has been reported for 23 species in Drosophila flies and here at University College we have been working with guppies.

Q. In other words, male seed is not always necessary to cause an egg to develop into an embryo?

A. No. Many different stimuli will cause an egg to begin development. The wonder is that virgin birth occurs so rarely.

DID YOU KNOW?

Only 21 English In City

By TONY DICKASON

William the bard queried "What's in a name?"

At long last achieving a new telephone book, we endeavored to find out.

Quick perusal showed that people are just about everything, and their names give them away.

We found 13 Popes and 33 Masons, four families who are Dunaway, six Ushers, two Clunks, three Coffins, five Deacons and 16 Earls.

Sliding along we found two Bannisters, innumerable Bells, Days by the dozens, 10 Gibbons and four Gurrs.

Several men are called Man.

Ten families are Stark, seven Waddell.

Four are Woolley and 10 Darlings. Twenty-eight are Cross and only three Earthy.

There's a column of combined Hills and Halls.

In Greater Victoria there are 25 old (and young) Baileys but only 20 Laws.

Four families are Keen, and a mere five are Good.

One family is Barefoot.

There are 32 Butlers in homes and, perhaps for fast service, two Chutes.

We almost scratched coming to the eight Roaches, sneezed beside the 10 Peppers, and genuflected near the 10 Golds.

All is not lost. There are 22 Abbotts to look after things spiritually.

Odd, but this area has only 21 English.

WHEN ARE THEY TOO SHORT?

When are shorts too short? Albert Crookes, a former deputy reeve of Toronto township has declared "open" war on shorts higher than 24 inches. Mr. Crookes, a 59-year-old bachelor, presented council with a tape measure, but admitted he was "too bashful to measure them himself." He suggested a special police officer be detailed for the job. When other members advised that the police department would be swamped with applicants, the shorts subject was dropped.

MONROE STORMS BRITAIN

She'll Sleep In Lavender

LONDON (UP)—Wise-cracking, sexy Marilyn Monroe kept Merrie Olde England agog today.

Usually-stolid Englishmen turned their attention from more important world affairs to the question of whether the shapely, loose-hipped blonde will mount her new bicycle for a tour of the English countryside.

"We know it's unimportant—but it's fun," the London Daily Sketch exclaimed in a banner headline.

The Hollywood actress and her New York playwright husband, Arthur Miller, arrived here Saturday to begin a honeymoon combined with a heavy work schedule. Marilyn will begin work on a picture with Britain's actor-knight Sir Laurence Olivier, while Miller will help polish up the London production of his play, "A View from the Bridge."

MESH MIDRIFF

Miss Monroe showed up at a press reception in London's Savoy Hotel Sunday wearing a skin-tight black dress with a transparent mesh midriff.

"It's very simple," she said of the dress. "It isn't my idea—but it's my midriff."

British newsmen applauded and cheered as the pretty actress snapped out wisecracks, while teen-age fans outside the building screamed with delight each time she walked past an open window.

WANTS McBETH

Marilyn told the British press that her early sexy roles in the movies were just an accident.

"It just happened to be those kind of parts," she said. "Naturally, I want to improve in every direction possible in my acting."

She said she wanted to play Lady Macbeth in Shakespeare's Macbeth, and Grushenka in Dostoyevsky's "The Brothers Karamazov."

"But I still hope to wear bathing suits as long as I'm able to wear them," she added.

IN LAVENDER?

Miss Monroe, who once said that Chanel No. 5 perfume was all she wore in bed, was asked if she will change her sleeping habits now that she's in England.

"Well, I might try Yardley's lavender," she quipped.

Because the actress said Saturday that she would like to tour part of England by bicycle, the Daily Sketch presented her with a brand new bike at the press reception.

But whether she could pedal safely from her $350-a-week rented mansion in Surrey remained a question. Some 300 villagers at Englefield Green, Surrey, mobbed her car Sunday, delaying her arrival at the Savoy Hotel for 45 minutes.

ROME (AP) — Police have announced they have broken up a pornographic picture ring specializing in photographing girls who flunked out in beauty contests. A police official said the group was discovered after a complaint from a father who found his daughter posing nude for one of the ring's photographers in her hotel room. Six persons have been arrested.

In the closing days of Henry VIII there was much court intrigue and romance involving such people as Katherine Parr, Lady Jane Grey, Anne Boleyn, Sir Thos. Stewart and his brother The Lord Protector. Foremost, of course were Henry's daughters, Mary Tudor and the young Elizabeth. How the fates interwove these lives into the making of the glorious First Elizabethan era is our story, depicted in dazzling costume and beautiful Technicolor.

CAMPBELL RIVER YEGGS STEAL CASH, CIGARETS

Pageant to Open Shrine Horseshow

Colorful equestrian pageantry will highlight for the first time Victoria Shrine Club's fifth annual horse show Aug. 4 in Royal Athletic park.

In addition to regular competition by five local riding clubs, Shriners have arranged for a downtown street parade including a 44-man Gizeh Temple marching patrol from Vancouver and a special feature from Seattle—the Westernaires—an all-girl drill team dressed in gay-90's costumes and mounted side-saddle.

The Victoria club band will play in the parade and at Royal Athletic Park in shows at 2.30 and 7.30 p.m., which will include all types of rodeo games and formal jumping events.

The five clubs participating will be Garden City Horsemen's Club, Colwood Trail Riders, Golden Rule Riding Academy, Victoria Riding Academy and Western Horsemen's Club.

General show chairman Ted Porter said "We expect this to be the biggest, best horse show to date in Victoria.

"There are more acts and it will be a much faster show than last year. And there will be the pageantry which we've never had before."

Gizeh Temple, including Vancouver and Victoria clubs, donates $4,000 annually to Queen Alexandra Solarium, and the local club has donated generously to the Solarium Building Fund.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM FLOWN TO VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Donald Pollock, 24, of Kelsey Bay, was flown here with serious injuries Sunday afternoon after the car in which he was riding ran off the road about 40 miles north of Campbell River.

He suffered a crushed chest and head injuries.

B.C. Airlines pilot Bob Langdon, flying Pollock to Vancouver, was forced to stop at Pender Harbor for more oxygen for the injured man.

Work Starts On Hospital

LADYSMITH—Demolition of the women's ward wing of Ladysmith General Hospital is scheduled to begin Tuesday to make room for a new $247,822 hospital building.

Site is directly behind the existing hospital, a frame building close to 50 years old. Contractor is A. & B. Construction Co. of Nanaimo.

Apprentice Shortage Causes Alarm Here

Concern over the shortage of apprentice tradesmen in B.C. has been expressed by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

He said there should be a total of 6,000 trades apprentices to keep pace with the rapid growth of B.C. industrial demand and to replace experienced tradesmen who reach retirement age.

At present there are only 2,200 young men being trained in the skilled trades, although this figure represents a 100 per cent increase over trainees three years ago.

Most immediate need of apprenticeship candidates is in the construction field, the minister said. Organized labor has voiced the same opinion, agreeing to the over-all shortage of new tradesmen.

Apprenticeship programs are carried out through four-party co-operation: federal and provincial governments, industry and trade unions.

The federal government agrees to assist the provincially-controlled program for a period of 10 years, or until 1964, paying half the cost of operation.

Government employment agencies are boosting apprenticeship training wherever possible, and an increased interest in the trades has been shown by high school students in the province.

She started her first scrapbook almost 50 years ago and has such items as a blossom from the first apple tree planted in Ontario and a twig from the tree under which Thomas Gray wrote Elegy in a Country Churchyard.

Other scrapbooks contain information on shellfish, pioneer days in British Columbia and books of pictures dating back to 1884. She also has Sunday school books from the first church in Nanaimo and a copy of The British Colonist of Saturday, Dec. 11, 1858.

SOCRED CANDIDATE for Nanaimo and The Islands riding in the next provincial election will be Mayor Earle Westwood of Nanaimo. Only candidate at a nominating meeting in Crofton, he said: "I have no intention of resigning as mayor. I feel confident that in a dual capacity I could accomplish a great deal more in the best interests of the city."

Student Survives Crash Into Bush

15 Minutes Out of Port Alberni, Flier Loses Way, Hits Mountain

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — A student pilot climbed uninjured from his wrecked plane and hitch-hiked back to civilization after a crash Saturday into the side of a 2-800-foot mountain 30 miles from here.

The pilot, Robert Oberg of Great Central Lake, about 10 miles from here, was airborne 15 minutes on a flight from Port Alberni to Powell River on the mainland, when he flew into fog and lost his bearings.

His light plane, a Fleet Canuck of the Vancouver Aero Club, crashed between two trees about 900 feet from the top of the mountain, two miles from Franklin River.

The young pilot was ferrying an aircraft to the Powell River Flying Club, following another plane which instructor John Parr was flying. They ran into fog and Oberg lost Parr.

"I flew around in a fog bank we encountered near Qualicum," Oberg said. After five or 10 minutes he "decided to turn back."

"I got off course and flew right over Port Alberni at a height of 3,000 feet."

The plane snapped off a tree on a mountainside, sheared off one wing and damaged the cockpit and fuselage near the MacMillan and Bloedel camp in the Franklin river area.

"I lost about 200 feet of altitude just before the crash. I tried to turn and saw the mountains right in front of me. I crashed into the trees and the plane dropped straight to the ground."

Woman Dies As Bus Burns Near Jasper

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Miss Laura Guest, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was killed and nine persons injured Sunday when a sightseeing bus burst into flames after going out of control on the Banff-Jasper highway, 105 miles north of here.

Two other Sault Ste. Marie residents, Mrs. Edith Barnett and Mrs. Nelson Laxton, were injured in the same accident.

RCMP said the bus, carrying a driver and 10 tourists, caught fire when it struck a huge rock on the side of the mountain highway near the Saskatchewan River crossing. They said the vehicle's brakes probably gave way and the bus struck the rock when the driver attempted to stop it from running away down a hill.

The bus was on a regular run from Jasper to Banff, 200 miles apart. The route, which passes near the Columbia icefield, often reaches a height of nearly 7,000 feet.

TUNNEL PROPOSED

Because the Straits of Gibraltar are relatively shallow, engineers have long advocated a tunnel.

THEY TAKE NO CHANCES

Ripple Rock Shaft Injured Only Six

VANCOUVER (CP) — Work on treacherous Ripple Rock, graveyard of five vessels and more than 100 persons in Georgia Strait, has been carried out to date with only six minor injuries.

Hard-rock miners, driving a shaft into the rock of Maud Island and under Seymour Narrows to blast the marine menace out of existence, have proceeded with great care.

John McLaren, first-aid man, said accidents have been scarce due to strict safety regulations.

"There is no excuse for infractions and the men know it. It's hard, dangerous work, especially underground, and it's easy to get into difficulty. No one takes chances."

More than 50 men are working on the project, 10 miles north of Campbell River.

Less than 90 feet of the 560-foot vertical shaft remains to be completed before miners, working aruond-the-clock shifts, start on the 2,200-foot drift under the narrows to the twin pinnacles of the rock.

When the blast explodes it will be the biggest man-made non-atomic blast in history.

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, JULY 16, 1956 11

TWO OF 3,000 SEAGULLS that will be banded here this year were caught by Mrs. E. D. Wood, left, of Saanichton, and Miss Lucille Ten Hompel, Pittsburgh, on Gull island, near Oak Bay. Birds are babies, still wear spots.

THEY FOLLOWED THE BIRDS . . .

1,600 Seagulls Banded

Members of Victoria Fish and Game Association, led by official bird bander E. D. Wood of Saanichton, helped in the banding on the weekend of 1,600 seagulls for the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, and Canada Wildlife Service.

Object of the project, which will see 3,000 birds banded before the end of the season, is to find out what percentage of the gulls here are migratory, and what percentage local.

"Bands applied here have turned up as far away as California," Mr. Wood said. "The most unusual, though, was the report of a Seattle man who read the number on a band while sitting in a dentist's chair. The bird had perched on the windowsill of the dentist's office."

Largest of the weekend drives was held Sunday on Mandarte Island, seven miles offshore from Sidney. Members of the party, walking in a straight line at 50-foot intervals, searched for the young birds hiding in the grass. During the day 1,100 young birds were banded.

"We never have any difficulty getting help for a job like this," Mr. Wood said. "Ches Alexander took us over in his boat, and club members did the work."

In the party were Dave Hancock, an authorized bird bander like Mr. Wood, and game club members Jack Hiscock, Bob Cootes, John Hurly, S. Rhodes, Cliff McMillan, John Hamilton, George Gilbert, Norman Alexander, Jack Wood and Cliff Wood.

The work of both bird banders and part-time helpers is voluntary, Mr. Wood said.

He said thousands of birds are banded here every year, from checkadees to peregrine falcons, and woodpeckers to ringnecked pheasants.

Persons recovering banded birds and sending the bands to the Canada Wildlife Service are given the band for a souvenir, along with all recorded information on the bird, such as where it had been retrapped, if at all.

Jaycee Fair, Victoria Day Show Merger Seems Assured

Amalgamation of Victoria Day celebrations and the Junior Chamber of Commerce Victoria Agricultural and Industrial Fair next year seems assured, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said today.

Ald. Edgelow, chairman of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, said recent meetings with Jaycee officials indicate a week-long celebration in 1957 instead of the usual three-day festivity.

"It seems both groups are in accord. That way we wouldn't be competing against each other," he stated.

Preliminary discussions will continue between Ald. Edgelow and Police Commissioner Gordon Carter, who represents the Jaycees.

It is envisioned the fair would run in co-operation with the numerous outdoor events of the GVCA climaxing with the usual grand parade on Victoria Day.

Cyclist Inquest Ordered

Week-Old Injuries Fatal to Man, 68

An inquest will be held Wednesday into the death Saturday of Reginald F. Minhinnick, 2926 Fifth, who was injured in a car-bicycle collision July 6.

It was the second death on the same day resulting from traffic injuries and the eighth of the year in the Greater Victoria area.

Mr. Minhinnick, 68, suffered head injuries when he fell to the pavement at Bay and Blanshard after colliding with a car police said was driven by Roderick J. Graff, 1613 Belmont.

An inquest will be held Tuesday.

Tourist Marker Yellow Lines To Be Challenged

Legality of the chamber of commerce-inspired yellow line, recently painted on streets leading to points of local interest for easier tourist direction, will be questioned at the next meeting of Victoria police commission.

Police commissioner William Hamilton said today he thought the city and adjoining municipalities may have unintentionally slowed city traffic.

"How can you pass?" he asked.

He pointed out that provincial regulations for road travel make it an offence for a driver to cross a solid centre line. The yellow line is a centre line even though it was painted merely as a tourist guide.

It extends for miles over some narrow streets and if the law is to be observed would mean passing would be illegal in a widespread section of Greater Victoria.

Whether the city has "painted itself into a corner" will be investigated. The matter was also brought up recently by city council but city engineer J. C. Garnett said then he felt the regulation would not apply to those streets affected.

Overall winner received an illuminated scroll and key to the city from the Nanaimo mayor, Earle C. Westwood, Sunday. Winners in various classes were announced as follows:

NO SWIM EASY

Over a Mile It's Tough Says Ryder

By DENNY BOYD

"There are no easy swims," says Marilyn Bell's famous coach, Gus Ryder.

"Once you get out over a mile, it is tough and you have to be ready for it."

That philosophy, which helped the world-famous coach-swimmer team tame the treacherous Lake Ontario and the English Channel, will be the theme of training as Ryder prepares Marilyn for her Times-Tely assault on the Strait of Juan de Fuca in late August or early September.

The hard-bitten Ryder, who first met Marilyn when she enrolled in his Toronto Exhibition Lakeshore club as an eight-year-old, is a task-master who demands discipline and the maximum of hard work from his charges.

TOUGHNESS SOUGHT

At a press conference Sunday night, shortly after the arrival of the Bell party, Ryder said, "While we are training, we want to hit the toughest conditions this water can throw at us.

"I am giving Marilyn Monday off to rest up from her trip but we will start training on Tuesday. She will swim every day except Sundays and we will gradually step up the daily swims to six hours or so."

Ryder added, however, "We want to save our big effort for the actual swim. It is no use expanding everything in practice and there is nothing worse than a stale swimmer."

NOT AT PEAK NOW

"Right now, Marilyn is not at the best of physical condition. She has just finished her exams and they fagged her a bit. We've got a lot of work ahead of us. The best practice for a football player is playing football and the best conditioning for a swimmer is swimming. We have a few exercises that she does in the water but swimming is still the best preparation."

"We expect the toughest kind of swim out here and we are going to search out as much local advice as we can regarding a course. That's just common sense."

"Salt water will never hurt Marilyn or make her sick. Part of our training program consists of making her swallow mouthfuls of salt water. That way, she gets used to it and if she swallows some during her swim, it won't nauseate her because she will be used to it."

The extremely Canada-conscious coach said, "This girl is a wonderful Canadian. We didn't have to do any importing for swimming the way we do for football. I don't think she has reached her peak yet and just how great she can become will depend on how long she wants to continue swimming. The main things in her favor right now are her wonderful courage and the fact that she still enjoys swimming."

Swimmers Save Stricken Youth

CRESCENT CREWMAN WOUNDED

An Esquimalt-based sailor aboard HMCS Crescent was in serious condition in hospital in Honolulu today following a mysterious shooting.

AB Ian W. Thompson, 23, of Calgary, was found with a bullet in his chest after a car drove away near Pearl Harbor. Three U.S. soldiers and a marine are being held by police for questioning.

Thompson, who left Esquimalt aboard Crescent June 9 on a training cruise, was found by a motorist who saw the car speeding away and took the licence number.

The bullet was removed from his chest in an emergency operation at Tripler Army Hospital.

Struck By Auto, Boy, 4, Injured

A four-year-old boy was injured Sunday when he was struck by a car on Gorge road near Rockwell.

David Smith, 2844 Adelaide, was reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Police said the boy ran between two parked cars into the path of an auto driven by William Owen Bassett of Phoenix, Ariz. Bassett was driving under 15 miles an hour, police said.

The accident occurred near a new beach on the Gorge at the foot of Rockwell and children crossing the road at that point have created a driving hazard, police said.

Seized With Leg Cramps, Sinks to Bed of Elk Lake

Fastion action Sunday night on the part of swimmers and spectators saved the life of Ken Showers, 17, of 575 Walters avenue, who came close to drowning at 8.45 p.m. at Elk lake.

At home today and "feeling fine," he blamed a leg cramp for the near tragedy.

"I started off from the beach by the Black Swan to swim to the float," he said. "All of a sudden I couldn't move my legs. I swam a few feet with just my arms, then called for help to my friend, Ron Burnett, on the float."

Burnett, not too strong and just a month out of a cast applied for a back fracture, reached Showers, but the two of them sank to the bottom of the lake at one time while Burnett struggled to keep them afloat.

With the help of Arnold Lowe and Irwin Le Bus, other swimmers at the scene, Showers was taken to the float and artificial respiration was applied. In the meantime, Vernon Exton, 3375 Connorton Lane, an off-duty navy fireman, went to the float in a rowboat and applied the Holger-Nielson method of artificial respiration.

It was continued until a Saanich fire department inhalator crew arrived. Showers was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for observation, but was released Sunday night and allowed to return home. He is a student at Mount View High School.

ASK The TIMES

Q. To settle an argument, will you please tell us if it was more than 15 years ago that a cougar was shot at the Victoria Public Library?—B. L.

A. Yes, it was more than 30 years ago when the animal, which had wandered into downtown Victoria, was traced by police to a low wall behind the library and shot and killed about 5.15 a.m.

Q. Has Barbara Ann Scott ever visited Victoria?—O. T. W.

A. She came here and performed in the Memorial arena with her show, "Ice Capers of '53," March 26, 27 and 28 of that year. At that time she told interviewers she recalled a visit she made in March, 1942, during which she took a tallyho ride, a cold experience while she listened to the conductor of the tour describe the delights of the same drive in the spring and summer months.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Licence Principle Held Undemocratic

The principle of forest management licences is undemocratic, counsel for Western Forest Management Association Ronald Howard told the Sloan Commission here today.

He said that the problem of the B.C. forest inquiry was one of "resisting, recapturing and reapplying" democratic principles in disposal of public property.

Mr. Howard said the provincial government should treat all organizations in relation to provincial forests alike.

He said under the existing forest management licences privileges were granted "the few" at the expense of many.

"You are determining the fate of this industry," he told the commissioner, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan.

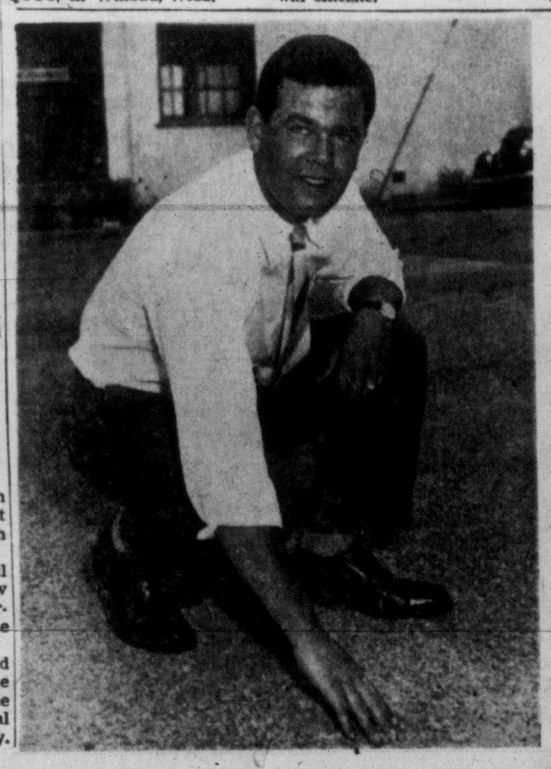
The Sloan commission's 16 months of sessions throughout the province have heard evidence "overwhelmingly" in favor of return to free allocation of forests," he said.

If the present policy of granting FML's is continued it pointed the way to the great bulk of natural resources winding up in the hands of the few.

Mr. Howard indicated the system of free enterprise and granting of FML's were at loggerheads.

"We support the principle of sustained yield . . . we are opposed to granting of FML's anywhere.'

He advocated that all existing FML licence areas be surveyed; that all forest land not now included be put in public working circles fixed by law; and that no licences of any description be granted to cut down crown timber.



Face-Lifting for Downtown End of Government Street

One of city's most important and oldest thoroughfares, Government Street, was resurfaced Sunday in lightning-fast one-day job. All traffic was diverted. New surface of non-skid flush-coating was laid from Belleville to Discovery. At left, spectator Bill Johnson gives new-look roadway a pat on the back. City engineer J. C. Garnett said cooler temperatures aided job; heat makes tar bleed and impairs the surface.

Long-range view shows Discovery to Hillside section of Government which will be repaved shortly. Sunday, all traffic will be re-routed to permit flush coating of Douglas Street from Belleville to Discovery. Street program is part of $100,000 improvement network slated for 1956. Minor irritation in connection with Government Street job is dust from pebble coating. However, this will disappear as cars grind pebbles into tarry undercoat.

Equal Pay Laws Discussed On Final Convention Day

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women Friday night recommended opposition to wordage which might be used in the federal government's proposed equal pay legislation to define equal work as that "identical or substantially identical," with work done by men.

Employment conditions chairman Margaret Hyndman told the federation's 15th biennial convention that equal work was defined with these words in equal pay legislation passed this year by the Manitoba government.

Miss Hyndman said it has been indicated that these same words would be used in the proposed government legislation covering equal pay for women in industries under federal jurisdiction.

"Apart from being extraordinarily bad English, the words are, we fear, an invitation to employers to try to define jobs out of the operation of the act," the Toronto lawyer said.

ENDED SATURDAY

Miss Hyndman's recommendation that if these words were used in the federal legislation, the federation would voice its opposition and asked that the word "equivalent", meaning "work of equal value," be used instead, was unanimously approved by the convention.

Some 450 delegates and observers are attending the two-day biennial meeting which ended Saturday with the presentation of resolutions, the elections of officers and a wind-up banquet with Ruth Tomlinson, president of the federation in Great Britain and Ireland, as guest speaker.

The Canadian meeting followed the triennial congress of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women which ended five-day sessions here Thursday and elected Miss Hyndman as its president.

STIFF COMPETITION

Friday night Miss Hyndman warned that if women are paid equally with men, they will have to meet stiff competition in efficiency and competition, and become worthy of the equal rights.

Five provinces have already introduced equal pay legislation, she said, "and we now await the introduction of the government bill."

She said that with the introduction of equal pay laws, women must make sure that the legislation is enforced, and infringements and interpretations which would adversely affect the declared purposes of the acts should be carefully watched.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "Is there any good book on skin care?"

A. I am sure that there are many but right now I will give you a few of the main tenents. Cleanliness: If your skin is normal use soap and water twice a day. If you are an adolescent use these four times a day. If you are past 35 you probably will need a lubricating cream daily.

If your skin is oily, use only soap and water, no creams on it. Use an astringent after cleansing. If it is very dry do not use soap and water at all. Cleanse it with a cleansing cream and also employ a lubricating cream. Use no astringents.

Remember that nutrition and exercise, emotional states and the general state of health affect the skin drastically.

Q. "Does a weekly application of vegetable hair rinse harm the hair? Mine has been coming out badly recently."

A. No, not unless you are allergic to it and this is seldom true of a rinse. It is often true when dye is used.

Q. "I need to lose weight but when I diet I become very weak. Why is this?"

A. There is a certain feeling of hollowness when you first diet after eating much more than you should have for many years. However, you probably are dieting incorrectly. Eat three meals a day with some inbetween snacks. Count all of this in on your daily calorie intake.

Make your inbetween snacks things like fresh fruit or fruit juice, skim milk or buttermilk, carrot sticks or celery. Many women make the mistake of cutting out a meal and therefore feel weak. These same women usually make up for it at their one big meal.

Q. "Will the skin ever return to normal color and pigmentation after a terrific suntanning? My skin was blistered and then peeled off. Now I have a few light freckles and dirty looking skin on my shoulders and it has been months."

A. Usually the skin finally returns to normal color unless it is treated over and over again in the same way. However, sometimes this takes a year or so.

Q. "Do you think a woman is too old to begin exercise after she is 30?"

A. Don't make me laugh! She is never too old to exercise if she takes the right kind for her condition and age unless she has some organic or systemic abnormality.

If you would like my six introductory exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 25. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

FRASER VALLEY VISIT

Only Chickens Didn't Scare Me, But I've No Beef With B.C. Beef

By DINAH KERR
Times Staff Reporter

This weekend I braved four snorting brute sows, 30 nervous Ayrshire cattle and temperatures of 35 below zero—all in the name of B.C. produce.

Actually between me and the above hazards were six press and radio women from Vancouver and Victoria — the first troops to be sent to the farming front by Premier W. A. C. Bennett. Our three-day tour of the lower Fraser Valley was part of a $100,000 government program to boost the sale of B.C. products.

The trip convinced me of two things. Our farm products deserve special attention from buyers, and hogs and cattle can smell out a coward no matter how much perfume is used to disguise the scent.

SPECIAL DIET

First visit was to the hoggery of J. R. McPhee, where 125 hogs immediately picked up my scent and began pawing the ground. At that point I could afford to be brave. Even the piglets were penned. According to farmer McPhee, the hogs are fed a concentrated mash diet, which ups the bacon and ham content, while keeping them lean and ornery. The piglets are weaned at eight weeks, then fed mash made from wheats, oats, barley, fish meal, proteins and linseed oil plus vitamins, until they reach a market weight of 200 lbs.

About this time, the hogs are lying on their sides and snorting farewells. Right on the "Cherrylyn" farm, they are slaughtered, immersed in a brine solution for up to 24 hours, then smoked for the market.

SHIPPED AFAR

Most of the ham and bacon is sold in the Chilliwack area, but some is shipped as far away as Denmark. Americans are among the most enthusiastic buyers.

To leave the farm we had to enter an open arena of four brute sows, one of which was hankering to charge me, but she was beaten off by young Lindsay McPhee, who holds close to 50 ribbons for his "show" hogs.

Then we were off to Allan Higginson's dairy farm of 30 Ayrshires, one of the many fine dairy herds in the Fraser Valley and a "nervous, lively breed."

None stepped livelier than I did. Within seconds there were six press women, a guide and an electrically-wired fence between me and "Minnie," "Tinkle," "Mabel," "Helen" and all their nervous friends.

The cows are milked by machine—30 in 1½ hours, and combine to give 70 gallons of creamy rich milk every two days.

Well, I may be a chicken when faced by cows, but on the next farm, I cowed the chickens. More than 120,000 broilers are raised on "The Willows" poultry farm, and 1,000 meet their fate every day.

Until then they are kept in wire cages and even walk on wire, to avoid epidemics of floor-borne diseases. To meet the doubled demand for broilers this year, the chickens are fed a special mash which matures them in eight weeks. Formerly the process took three months.

The chickens are slaughtered, viscerated and packaged on the farm, and advertised widely as "flavor-fed fryers." They are shipped to all B.C. centres, including Vancouver and Victoria. They may be purchased fresh or frozen.

SEES FOOD PLANT

Saturday wound up with a visit to the Fraser Vale Frosted Food plant, where local peas were being sorted, graded, packaged and frosted at the rate of one enormous batch every four hours. That's where we met temperatures of 35 below zero. The peas stand it for several hours. I left after 40 seconds.

On Sunday morning, I rose early to take an airplane tour of the Fraser Valley. The trip was spectacularly beautiful. Below us were spread lush valley farms, rich in the produce which has made the Fraser Valley famous as a farming centre.

Following a visit to the Fraser Valley dairy, which feeds B.C. with creamy cottage cheese, powdered and fresh milk, we left for home, convinced that "B.C. products are best." It was worth facing the hogs and cows and freezing temperatures to prove it to me.

Newlyweds Honor Guests At Reception

The fair-haired bride of Mr. Graham Cox was presented to the family's Victoria friends, Saturday afternoon, when Mr. A. H. Cox entertained at his home, 950 Joan Crescent, to honor the newlywed couple, who exchanged vows in Vancouver last week. The bride is the former Erna Bartel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Bartel of Vancouver. Miss Diane Cox assisted her brother and sister-in-law, and her father in receiving guests.

A three-tier wedding cake, ornately decorated with pink rosebuds, lily of the valley and horseshoes and set on a silver stand, centred the bridal table, which was covered with a cutwork cloth. Pink and white carnations were placed around the base of the cake, which was flanked by tall white candles. Arrangements of pink and white carnations decorated the rooms.

Mrs. R. L. Cox and Mrs. Charles Jordan presided at the tea table and serviteurs were Miss Elinor Cox, Mrs. Alan Cox, Mrs. Gordon Cox, Mrs. Gordon Root, Mrs. Arthur Ash and Mrs. Jack Lacey.

Many linen gifts were placed in a miniature bridal chest and presented to bride-elect, Miss Gwen Armstrong, by Miss Rosemary North at a recent shower held by Mrs. D. Wilson. Guests were Mrs. M. Armstrong, Mrs. E. Combes, Mrs. M. Cumming, Mrs. A. Farquharson, Mrs. J. Collins, Mrs. W. McKenzie, Mrs. Perry North, Mrs. A. Digby, Mrs. Poet, Mrs. Huston, Mrs. S. Shaw and Miss E. Brett.

STUDIO ONE OFFERS 'EMMALINE' ON C-11 AT 7

THE PROGRAM PARADE—Local faces will be seen on the home screens this week. Irene Henderson and Jerry Gosley will be featured on "Almanac" at 7 p.m., Channel 2, Tuesday . . . on Wednesday, Victoria magician Carl Hemeon and wife Lottie will perform on the Stan Boreson show, Channel 5, at 5 p.m.

KING-TV announces that Channel 5 will carry the 1956 college all-star football game from 6.30 to 9.30 p.m., Friday, August 10 . . . the CBS network has contracted to carry 10 National Hockey League games from next January 5 throughout March 9—games will come from New York, Boston, Detroit and Chicago. Canadian clubs are not involved in the telecasts.

* * *

GEORGE BURNS is reported as saying Gracie Allen thinks she wants to quit doing their popular weekly TV shows on CBS, but that if she ever did she would be a lost soul—not knowing how to live without working.

The "Miss America" finals will be telecast from Atlantic City by ABC for the third year. . . . Frankie Laine starts his summer replacement chore for Arthur Godfrey and Friends on CBS beginning August 1. He will be on six to eight weeks.

There will be no vacation this summer for Ed Sulllivan, who usually takes off for two weeks at this time. They say Ed isn't taking any chances on the new Steve Allen show on NBC, opposite him, taking liberties with his top rating. . . . Julia Meade, by the way, will spend August 6-11 acting in the play "Tea and Sympathy," at the Casino Theatre in Newport, R.I.

Five ABC-TV programs carried by KING-TV have won top 10 ratings in a recent ARB survey. They are, Disneyland, Lawrence Welk, Warner Brothers Presents, Search for Adventure and the Wednesday night fights.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

TUESDAY, JULY 17, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Early day finds it necessary for you to scrupulously carry out agreements made with others, personal or material. Then you find your judgment is poor and you have to go along with unusual persons, condition for any success.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Limiting colleague seems to be closing in even tighter on you with the reins of minor details also included in what is demanded. However, later you find member of your household gets into the fracas unless you tactfully keep apart.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Tasks that annoy you seem piling up. Keep poised during daytime and you get them done with none of the damage, etc., that a hectic attitude would bring. P.M. finds you eager to get out and see kin, neighbors, etc., but use care on the highway.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—What you have in mind in the way of pleasures disappoints unless you stick to the tried and true and proven, reliable associates during the day. Later you find property matters disappointing but generous comrades save day with fun.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)—Tension at home rapidly increases if you show annoyance or heap anything additional. Instead, seek ways to find agreement and have greater harmony. P.M. is fine for brilliant idea that is quite unusual. Avoid the stuffy, formal. Have fun.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22)—You need to be very careful to make none of those brittle, clever comments for they would be misunderstood today. Also use more than average caution in motion to prevent accident, damage. Later you find generous confidante eases everything.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)—Parting with more than you can well afford or making any heavy commitments very adverse for you at this time. Be sure to get together later with broad-visioned, devoted friend who has similar pixie sense of humor to your own.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)—You feel grumpy, frustrated and like crawling in your shell or lashing out at the world, but to what point? Act cheerful and you win big respect, admiration from others who then release favor of worldly nature. Show appreciation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)—Behind-the scenes conniving that's going on can catch you in the middle unless you make sure to do nothing to aggravate or give cause for more complaints from these grouches. Later you have newcomer with inflated ego test your control.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Uncompromising friend really shows what he or she expects but it's pretty demanding. However, don't argue today. Let it be known you want to think it over, under the better oncoming influences everything gets toned down.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Take no chances whatever with your reputation or credit. Be sure to do whatever your job requires with exactness and conscientiousness. Later you find a partner makes some big request. Take time to think out.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Running off to new deal before old obligations have been fulfilled today would really take from your successes and later chance to progress at right moment. Show others you see their standpoints and keep on high principles.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TUESDAY

Tuesday's child is one of those youngsters who seems eager and anxious to learn things "the hard way". Make sure you give your offspring the incentive that he or she needs of high character and lofty motives in educational and other training. This tot will want all kinds of things, will never be satisfied with less than the best, will be willing to work hard to get them. Fine for vocations connected with uncovering difficulties and finding the right solutions for them.

SUBURBAN ESTATE
Nearly 17 acres—subdivisible. Amid the charm and seclusion of an acre of beautifully landscaped grounds (one of the most beautiful gardens and rockeries this writer has seen) is a seven-roomed, very attractive home, approximate floor area 1,800 square feet. Three bedrooms, one 15x21, two bathrooms, maid's room and bathroom; automatic oil hot water heat. A blacktop, tree bordered driveway wends its way through a goodly portion of the acreage to the home and gardens but the residence is close and easily accessible to another road, thereby making it perhaps desirable to subdivide perhaps 15 acres of the property. This is an exceptional offering. About 7 acres of the property is cleared and in hay, the balance presents no problems to a subdivider and is beautifully wooded lending itself to a higher-priced development. The price for this outstanding property is just $37,000

SUBURBAN ESTATE
Nearly 17 acres—subdivisible. Amid the charm and seclusion of an acre of beautifully landscaped grounds (one of the most beautiful gardens and rockeries this writer has seen) is a seven-roomed, very attractive home, approximate floor area 1,800 square feet. Three bedrooms, one 15x21, two bathrooms, maid's room and bathroom; automatic oil hot water heat. A blacktop, tree bordered driveway wends its way through a goodly portion of the acreage to the home and gardens but the residence is close and easily accessible to another road, thereby making it perhaps desirable to subdivide perhaps 15 acres of the property. This is an exceptional offering. About 7 acres of the property is cleared and in hay, the balance presents no problems to a subdivider and is beautifully wooded lending itself to a higher-priced development. The price for this outstanding property is just $37,000
Please call K. R. Liss or Mrs. Eileen Shirley for appointment to view. Evenings 2-5865 or 4-8485 M.L.B. No. 1872.

World Trade Bill Delayed in U.S.

Congress Fears Quick Action With Election in November

WASHINGTON (CP) — It appears highly unlikely that the United States will join the rest of the free world this year in setting up a world organization to promote trade co-operation.

Congress, which traditionally looks with high suspicion on any suggestion that American trade relationships be liberalized, obviously is dead set against making any such move in this election year. The country votes Nov. 6 in a general election.

The Senate and the House of Representatives, which are expected to adjourn within the next week or two, have had before them for months an administration request for approval for U.S. membership in the Organization for Trade Co-operation, the big 35-nation body developed to administer the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

A KEY BILL

The U.S. is a partner along with the 34 other states, including Canada, in the GATT and the legislation for American membership in the OTC which would police the agreement, is one of the key bills in President Eisenhower's 1956 trade program.

The House ways and means committee reported favorably on the legislation last March but now with election time drawing near, the bill has lost much of its popularity. Congressional polls show Republicans against it by a count of two to one and Democratic House leaders now concede the bill would be defeated if brought up for debate.

Opponents of the bill contend that Congress, by passing it, would be surrendering to an international body its constitutional power over foreign trade. The administration argues that the legislation in no way impairs congressional powers.

The legislation now is on its second round in Congress. It was introduced last year but god nowhere.

The administration, while it concedes that OTC can be written off for this year, still has hopes of congressional action on its customs simplification bill, a long-awaited measure to tidy up the antiquated U.S. customs system. However, concessions it has been forced to make to protectionist congressmen may tend to nullify some of the benefits to foreign traders seeking entry into the U.S. market.

WON'T BE ENOUGH PASSENGERS?

Huge New Jet Liners Pose Major Problem

MONTREAL (BUP)—So many airlines are ordering so many jetliners that at least one international agency thinks there won't be enough passengers to fill them.

The same impartial body also feels that when the airlines start switching to jets in two or three years the bigger ones will pay only on such routes as across the North Atlantic and across the North American continent.

The diplomatically phrased warning comes from the International Civil Aviation Organization, a United Nations' specialized agency with headquarters here. The word, almost unnoticed outside Venezuela, was released in a report by ICAO's council of the group's 10th assembly this month at Caracas.

As of now four jet-powered airliners are either in the field or about to be boosted into it by their manufacturers. They are the American Boeing 707 and Douglas DC8, both of which will be able to carry up to 150 passengers, and the smaller British Comet and French Caravelle.

All are described by their builders as so much faster, and the bigger ones of so much greater carrying capacity than any planes now in use that ICAO says their introduction into scheduled airline service "will make the greatest change since the appearance of four-engined aircraft in 1939 or of the DC-3 in 1936."

"The largest of these aircraft will produce about three times as many seat-kilometers per year as can be produced by any current airliner," ICAO reported. "Indeed, they will have approximately the same annual trans-Atlantic passenger carrying capacity as a 40,000-ton ocean liner."

According to IACO, 12 such planes as the 707 or DC8 could handle the existing traffic over the North Atlantic, and 320 could perform "the same quantity of passenger-kilometers as is now performed by the existing world fleet of some 4,500 planes."

Passenger-kilometers is the airlines' way of saying one passenger carried one kilometer, and is the way their statisticians work such things out.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Broad gains in rye appeared in active trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. The gains were stimulated by advances in wheat and rye prices in the United States and the announcement by the American government of a new subsidy policy under which export wheat purchases will be routed through open market at Chicago.

Oats and barley had fair domestic shipper and export demand. A small quantity of barley was reported sold to the United Kingdom. Flax prices were irregular, with selling by U.S. interests and a few export orders on recessions.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat soared on the board of trade today in response to a new government export policy, announced during the weekend.

The strength in wheat was reflected in rye, which also scored substantial gains. Other cereals were mostly firm although gains were not large. At times oats dipped under the previous close.

Refining oils featured the action as McColl gained 2½ and B-A added 1½. Trans Mountain climbed two points in pipe lines. Algoma jumped six points as Dosco firmed ¾ in steels.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils and selected issues kept the stock market on the upside by a slim margin late this afternoon.

Leading stocks were up from fractions to around a point and a few outside gainers advanced three points or so. But many earlier gains were trimmed as the session wore on and there was a scattering of losers.

Gains predominated among Canadian issues. McIntyre Porcupine led with a gain of 1½. Aluminum Ltd. was up ½, Distillers-Seagrams ⅝, Hudson Bay Mining ½, Walker-Gooderham ¼ and International Nickel ⅛. Granby Mining was down ⅝.

Miscellaneous leaders were supported. Kaffirs were generally easier under the lead of Free State Geduld and coppers were mixed. Leading oils were firm with Triad a good market but Trinidad Developments lost ground.

U.S. Economic Pace Reaches Long-Sought $400 Billion Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The total production of goods and services in the United States passed the $400,000,000,000 annual rate in the final quarter of 1955 and rose to an even higher rate of $403,400,000,000 a year in the opening quarter of 1956, the government reported Sunday.

Economists and government officials long have talked of the day when the economic pace would reach a $400,000,000,000-a-year rate. President Eisenhower has said the U.S. economy should grow to $500,000,000,000 annually within the next 10 years.

The commerce department's revised figures for the last two years and the first quarter of 1956 showed the gross national product almost doubling from the $209,250,000,000 it reached in 1946. In 1939 the total was just over $91,000,000,000.

Besides reporting a record for output of goods and services, the July survey of current U.S. business to appear soon will show that: National income edged upward to a new annual rate of $335,000,000.

The big thrust came from public spending. The public boosted its outlay for personal consumption by more than $2,000,000,000 the first quarter of this year compared with the windup of 1955. The new rate of nearly $262,000,000,000 annually was $8,000,000,000 higher than 1955.

my side of the story

A continuing series
BY THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

In our flight across France there was no shaking off the pursuit now, and for an hour we drove in the company of our unwanted escorts, a long line of cars moving almost bumper to bumper at breakneck speed. Every now and then one of the pursuers would roar past for a closer look at the quarry.

Directly ahead of our route was the town of Vienne, famous, among other things, for the Restaurant de la Pyramide, which has one of the finest cuisines in the world.

From my previous travels I had come to know its proprietors, Monsieur and Madame Point, upon whose discretion and solicitude I was sure I could count.

We arrived there about three in the afternoon, our pursuers breathing down our necks. They followed Perry and me into the building but kept their distance.

Nobody tried to force me into giving an interview. But there was no mistaking the look of triumph on the faces of the reporters. They had run me down and did not propose to let me get away again.

Madame Point took me up to her own room. I was desperately tired and I had not eaten all day.

While Madame Point went to order a simple lunch, I finally succeeded in reaching David on the telephone. The connection was almost intelligible. I repeated the gist of the message I had tried to get through to him from Evreux. David was reassuring but non-committal.

PRIVATE ROOM

So that our group would not be bothered, Madame Point insisted on serving our lunch in her private banquet hall, a room large enough to seat at least 40.

In this setting of lonely grandeur Perry and I lunched together at the far end of the room, while Evans ate alone at the other end, his eyes trained on the door.

It was Madame Point who came forward with a brilliant scheme for rescuing us from our pursuers.

The Press was also hungry, and had ordered en masse a meal that must have made formidable inroads upon their employers' bank accounts. Madame Point had sufficient confidence in the excellence of her husband's cuisine to be certain that the meal in preparation would engross them for several hours.

LOSING THE PRESS

"Meanwhile, madame," she said, "there is a back stairway leading down to the kitchen. There, easily reached from the top of a table, is a not-too-small window from which one might drop into a narrow alley not likely to be known to these strangers.

"If madame will give the necessary instructions to her chauffeur, Monsieur Point will guide the motor unobtrusively into the alley. And if madame herself is not opposed to a course which, while perhaps lacking in dignity, nevertheless will—"

"Madame Point," I interrupted, "I'm ready to try anything."

And it was in this manner that I made my escape, squeezing myself through a tiny window while Madame Point and Perry Brownlow braced a kitchen table beneath my feet, and Monsieur Point and Evans, disposed like acrobats outside in the alley, manoeuvred to catch me as I slid down.

RUSE WORKS

It was a feat that would, I am sure, have brought a nod of approval from Miss Charlotte Noland, my girlhood gym instructor of Arundell days. Perry Brownlow, after he had wriggled his way through the window in his turn, remarked dryly, "Too bad Stanley Baldwin missed that little scene."

In any case, the ruse worked. As we entered the car there came to us faintly from the restaurant the sounds of the press bloodhounds enjoying their fine luncheon.

Through the rest of the afternoon, in sleet and rain, over twisting roads, Perry took turns driving with Ladbrook.

The day had wearied us all; talk ceased; even the vigilant Evans dozed in his seat as the car sped down the all-but-deserted highways.

ALL ALONE

I felt most frightfully alone. It seemed that I had been gone from the Fort not for two days but for a lifetime. All that had happened to me there now took on an unreal and remote aspect.

Because of the storm, the roundabout route, and the time lost in Vienne, we were still three hours from Cannes, and I was afraid that Rogerses, thinking we must have stopped on the road for the night, might be about to go to bed.

It was then about 11 o'clock; we were approaching a town called Brignoles, and Perry decided we should telephone Herman. But Brignoles was shuttered for the night as tightly as only a French provincial town can be.

PUBLIC PHONE

The post office, where public calls are ordinarily made, was dark. Perry banged with his fists on the big front door. Suddenly shutters flew open, at least four heads popped out of windows, and there was directed at Perry a fusillade of Gallic indignation that could have started the cobblestones from the street.

Perry finally broke the barrage and made known his desire to use the telephone. An elderly gentleman with fierce mustachios bellowed back that the telephone was in plain sight in a box on the wall a short distance down the street.

He recommended that Perry use it, if, on further thought, he could find any rational justification for telephoning respectable people at such an outlandish hour.

Perry made his way to the box while Ladbrook and I followed slowly in the car.

WEDNESDAY: David stands firm.

Permits Needed Day to Day for Trash-Burning

All permist for burning rubbish within Victoria city limits have been cancelled until the present dry spell is over.

Fire Chief Frank Briers said permits will be issued from day to day to persons who telephone or appear at any fire station.

Daily permits are required even if an incinerator is used.

The action followed a number of chimney and grass fires in the city last week.

"It's getting pretty hazardous throughout the city," said Chief Briers. "The new rules will stay in effect until we get a break in the weather."

Similar regulations are also being enforced in surrounding municipalities.

In Esquimalt permits are issued only for incinerator fires which must be guarded with a garden hose.

Saanich and Oak Bay both require daily permits for all outside burning.

B.C. Pioneer, W. J. Alder, 90 on Sunday

Vivtoria realtor and pioneer of Prince Rupert, William James Alder celebrated his 90th birthday Sunday.

He was born near Greenwich, England, and came to Victoria 40 years ago. He built the first commercial building at Prince Rupert for the old Grand Trunk Railway in 1909.

Mr. Alder was appointed commissioner of the city by the provincial government to take it out of the red during the depression. This was accomplished by 1940 and the city returned to normal municipal government although a large number of residents petitioned the cabinet to leave Mr. Alder as commissioner.

City Welcomes Marilyn; And She Loves Victoria

Swim Star Begins Training Tuesday

See also pages 3 and 11.

By DENNY BOYD

Marilyn Bell, the Toronto swimming star, got up at 7 a.m. today for her first "unofficial" look at Victoria and loved it.

She and her companion, Maria Brenk, went for a stroll along the Oak Bay waterfront before breakfast.

With her toes Marilyn tested the water of Juan de Fuca Strait which she will attempt to swim five or six weeks from now.

After breakfast she and her coach, Gus Ryder and other swim party members went over to Oak Bay boathouse to inspect the training boat "Alibi" owned by Dakers Scott. A hundred Oak Bay children tagged along and Marilyn posed with them for pictures.

Marilyn will make her first training swim at 9 a.m. Tuesday. It had been planned to have her swim this morning, but Coach Ryder ruled instead she should have a day of relaxation after her flight from Toronto Sunday.

Marilyn arrived Sunday night to a tumultuous welcome which set the stage for her meeting with "the Mount Everest of swims."

And Victoria fell in love with her.

Coach Ryder was as enthusiastic about Victoria as Marilyn.

"There is a quaintness and a peace here. Perhaps you who live here are so accustomed to it you don't notice it. It reminds me of when we were training for the Channel at Folkestone last year."

The 18-year-old Toronto girl, conqueror of Lake Ontario and the English Channel, arrived at Patricia Bay Airport at 6.45 Sunday night together with her famous coach, silver-thatched Gus Ryder, and her travelling companions, to begin intensive training for her Times-Tely strait swim in late August or early September.

Touched By Victoria's Greeting

Victorians provided a warm welcome that obviously touched the girl who became an internationally-known figure in 1954 when she courageously battled for 16 hours to become the first person to swim Lake Ontario.

A crowd of almost 1,000 packed the airport, jostling each other in an effort to see her and to shout words of welcome and wishes of "Good Luck, Marilyn, we're all behind you."

As she stepped off her airplane, Miss Bell was greeted by Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times which is a co-sponsor of the $20,000-guaranteed swim.

Arriving with Marilyn and coach Ryder were Marilyn's travelling companion, Maria Brenk; chaperone Phyllis Griffiths of the Toronto Telegram, and Telegram reporter-photographer team, Dorothy Howarth and Jack Judges.

Mr. Keate introduced Marilyn to Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurrah, and Mrs. Scurrah presented the five-foot, two-inch 129-pound swim star with a bouquet of red roses on behalf of the city.

Civic greetings were extended Marilyn by Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich, Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt and Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay.

Harold Elworthy, Island Tug & Barge president, gave Miss Bell an encouraging message when he told her, "We are supplying the boats for your swim and we are going to get you across."

Miss Bell was particularly pleased to meet three other swimmers who have tried, unsuccessfully, to defeat the Strait. On hand to offer their best wishes were Amy Hiland, the courageous Long Beach, Calif., housewife, who failed last Friday by a scant mile and a half, to become the first woman to cross the Strait; Saanich surveyor Bill Muir, who also came within a mile and a half of success, and Ben Laughren, the swimming chef, who is considered a top contender in the Juan de Fuca fight.

Regret Expressed at Amy's Loss

Marilyn said to Mrs. Hiland, "You made a wonderful try. I heard all about it and I was so sorry that you had bad luck so close to the finish.

She joked with Muir about the whiskers he is growing to celebrate the Saanich Golden Jubilee and posed for pictures, tickling the whiskers.

Others in the receiving line were swim officials Archie McKinnon and Jack Todd and Mrs. Jean Henderson of the Cerebral Palsy Association.

Leaving the airport, Marilyn and Gus perched on the top of the back seat of their car, waving at people who parked along the highway to watch the motorcade that started with 10 cars and grew to 40.

A police motorcycle escort picked up the car parade at the city limits and, sirens wailing and horns hooting, the cars proceeded to the Old Charming Inn in Oak Bay.

Miss Bell said to her driver, "I hope no one is trying to sleep in this neighborhood. City Hall might receive some nasty letters about all the noise."

She commented favorably on the freshness of the Victoria air, the beauty of the homes, and the city's famous hanging flower baskets.

On arrival at the picturesque inn, where 200 more people, most of them armed with cameras, awaited her. Marilyn spoke briefly to the crowd, saying, "I am really happy to be here. I want very much to try this swim and I want you to know that I will do my very best."

Coach Ryder told the crowd, "You can put your confidence in this fine young Canadian."

After a few minutes to look at her suite, Miss Bell answered dozens of questions at an informal press conference.

She told the press that she had heard about the Strait from unsuccessful challengers Florence Chadwick, Father Donelon and Janice White.

She said she preferred swimming in salt water for the buoyancy it provides, does not wear grease while swimming and would probably tackle the strait using a 60-70-cycle flutter-kick crawl.

Regarding temperatures, she said that she had swum in 42-degree water. She said, "If you're cold, you're cold and one or two degrees doesn't make much difference then."

Marilyn's training program will start Tuesday with her first practise swim. She was given today off to rest up from her long trip out from Toronto and the strain of her reception.

She will swim every day except Sundays and Ryder plans to gradually increase the duration of her practise swims.

He said, "Right now, Marilyn is 50 per cent in physical condition but, as always, she is 100 per cent in desire and courage."

No set date has been established for her swim but Marilyn said she has to return to Toronto for enrollment at McGill University in the third week of September. She will enter the first year of her physiotheraphy course.

Her rigid training regime will allow little time for social diversions but Marilyn will attend a Cerebral Palsy Association Garden Party at the Harold Husband home.

Marilyn's Diary

Hello Folks!

At last we are in Victoria, where we will meet that stretch of water I have heard so much about—the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Marilyn

That name—I wonder how many times it has gone through my mind in the past few months?

But the thinking part is over now. We are here and we are going to settle right down to my training program for the swim I want so badly to make.

The welcome we received on our arrival at the airport Sunday night was something I will always cherish.

* * *

I met Mayor Scurrah at the airport and he told me that he hoped I would carry away many lovely memories of Victoria. The friendly manner in which people greeted us will certainly live forever in the minds of our party, I can promise that.

At the airport, I met civic representatives and people connected with the arrangements for my swim. I also met three other swimmers who have tried the strait and I thought it was very kind of them to come out to greet me and wish me luck.

Amy Hiland, who made a very brave attempt last week was there and I was surprised at how well she looked. She had a tough swim Friday, yet on Sunday she looked as fresh and pretty as a flower.

Bill Muir is the first bearded distance swimmer I have ever met and I wondered if Ben Laughren has any trouble keeping to his training program when he is such an accomplished chef.

* * *

On our drive in from the airport, I kept taking deep gulps of the wonderfully clean, fresh air and I thought the countryside looked so pretty with all the farms and fields.

I was waving to people from the car and there were so many people that I accidentally waved to a mailbox once by mistake. No wonder it didn't wave back!

* * *

The Old Charming Inn certainly is properly named. It is quaint, lovely and wonderfully comfortable. Gus said I don't have to swim today so I think I will spend as much time in my room as I can. It's really too pretty to leave.

I want to enjoy the comforts of life while I can because from here on in, we are going to work. This will be the toughest challenge of my life and I want to be ready for it.

PRINCESS, TOWNSEND IN WEEKEND MEETING?

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret slipped back into London today quietly and alone after a weekend in the country.

The Sunday Express suggested she may have met Group Capt. Peter Townsend at mutual friends' house party. Townsend was also reported to be spending the weekend "in the country."

BEN, AMY AND BILL OFFER BEST WISHES

Adenauer, Nehru Ask Disarmament

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany and Prime Minister Nehru of India today called for a world disarmament agreement including proper provisions for control and inspection. Their views were set out in a joint communique issued after Nehru's three-day visit to Bonn.

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia today called on the United States and Britain to agree that all three countries stop testing nuclear weapons.

Dmitri Shepilov, making his first public address here since taking over from V. M. Molotov as foreign minister, told 1,300 delegates to the Supreme Soviet this aim could be achieved in any one of three ways. He listed these as:

1. Within the framework of the United Nations.

2. A tripartite agreement among the three powers concerned, which other countries could join later.

3. Separate official statement from each government declaring they were abandoning nuclear tests.

URGE JOINT DEMAND

Shepilov urged the three-way agreement shortly after the Supreme Soviet, meeting in the Kremlin, unanimously adopted an appeal addressed to all other parliaments in the world to join with the Soviet legislation in demanding an end to the arms race and swifter progress toward disarmament.

His statement came in a debate on a motion, later adopted unanimously, extending Soviet support to an appeal from the Japanese parliament for an end to nuclear weapons tests. The Soviet action came a week before the scheduled start of peace treaty talks with the Japanese.

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United States were reported today willing to negotiate an agreement with Russia to limit—but not end—the testing of nuclear weapons.

British and American diplomats said the aim would be to guard mankind against the hazards of radiation.

WIRE BRIEFS

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A two-engine Argentine airliner crashed today near Rio Cuarto, 375 miles northwest of here, with 14 passengers and four crew members aboard. First reports from the interior said no survivors were sighted.

Fisherman Perishes

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A man identified only as Norman McLeod perished in a fire that swept a Vancouver gillnet fishing boat in the coastal waters off northern B.C.

Search Water Drains

WESTBURY, N.Y. (UP)—Police were scheduled today to begin searching water drains near the house from which Peter Weinberger was kidnapped in an effort to find the missing baby's body.

Court Martial Starts

PARRIS ISLAND (AP)—The general court martial trial of Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, charged with manslaughter in the drowning of six Marine recruits April 8, opened today.

LEEDS, Eng. (Reuters)—Australia was all-out for 143 runs in answer to England's first innings total of 325 by mid-afternoon on the fourth day of the third cricket test match here today.

Gas Price War Waged

VANCOUVER (CP)—A gasoline price war has started in suburban Burnaby.

Two service stations served notice that they were cutting the price of gas as much as six cents.

British Columbia's only self-service station announced that starting today prices would drop to 33.9 cents a gallon for regular and 36.9 cents for premium.

Across the street a station operator cut prices four cents Saturday to meet his competitor.

A station on the Lougheed highway cut prices four cents Saturday to 34.9 cents a gallon.

Al McTaggart, operator of the station, admitted a price "war" is on and said today "I hope something happens soon. We aren't losing money; but we sure aren't making any."

HERE AT LAST—Marilyn and coach Gus Ryder arrive at Pat Bay.

B.C. Child Dragged to Death

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Paulette Martin, 2, her harness hooked to the rear bumper of a car, was dragged a mile to her death near this Kootenay centre Saturday.

RCMP said the baby was the daughter of Mrs. J. P. Martin of Sunshine Bay, B.C. Her father lives in Vancouver.

She was staying at the farm of her grandparents at Proctor, 20 miles west of here.

Police said John Dvorak, 19, had borrowed a car from the child's grandparents and returned it Saturday.

Then he jumped into his own vehicle, not knowing the child's leather harness had been hooked to the rear bumper to keep her from wandering into a nearby creek.

The child was dragged a mile before the driver was stopped by the frantic shouts of witnesses.

CAR IN RIVER

Other B.C. fatalities included an unidentified woman who drowned when her car plunged into the Skeena river, 66 miles east of Prince Rupert.

Fred May, 65, died after being hit by a car in Vancouver's East End.

Well, we've added the queen o' hearts to that royal flush o' strait swimmers.

M' Uncle Zeke sez it ain't hard t'figger who's gonna be Bell o' th' ball.

* * *

And t'other Marilyn ain't helpin' British inflation any—just another round figger.

Europe, Asia In Range of New Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has told Congress that a new ship-launched atomic missile now in the making will be able to hit any target within nine-tenths of the vast Communist domains of Europe and Asia.

That assumption is based on the ability of the launching ships to get close enough.

The navy disclosed some of its war plans for the Jupiter, as well as for missiles and attack planes already in the fleet, in hitherto secret testimony before the Senate airpower investigating committee headed by Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., Mo.).

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O GOD, we give Thee thanks today for the spirit which has moved so many Victoria churches to join in an appeal to the heart of every man. May we see in this the fulfillment of the words of Thy Son: "Keep through Thine own name those whom Thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are." Amen.

NARROW ESCAPE

Standing near a Canadian Pacific Railway boxcar which came within six feet of demolishing their Vancouver waterfront home are Mrs. Dorothy Anderson, 49, and her son. Both were in the house when the boxcar, loaded with 45 tons of grain, toppled down the steep embankment. It had been thrown from a track siding above by a derailing device after it was cut loose by a switching engine.

216 Firemen Hurt In N.Y. Inferno

NEW YORK (AP)—A week-end fire that destroyed the old, abandoned John Wanamaker department store and knocked out a section of the subway caused an unprecedented jam-up of riders at Grand Central Terminal today.

Nearly a dozen persons were felled by the heat during the morning rush hour, in what a policeman described as the largest crowd he had ever seen at the normally busy terminal.

Water from fire hoses poured onto the burning building down on Astor Place cascaded into the Interborough Rapid Transit Lexington Avenue line and the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit subway. Both link Brooklyn and Manhattan and serve a large area of Manhattan.

The stubborn fire, meanwhile smoldered into a third day in the ruins of the old block-square building in lower Manhattan.

The toll of firemen treated for smoke poisoning, cuts and burns mounted to 216. Twenty were in hospital.

Officials said a spark from an acetylene torch may have started the blaze Friday. Wreckers had recently begun demolishing the ornate stone and iron structure.

The fire apparently smouldered in the basement until late Saturday afternoon. Then flames suddenly shot up an air well in the centre of the five-storey building and spread to the roof.

The five-alarm fire roared out of control Saturday night and Sunday. At 1 a.m. today an assistant fire chief said the blaze was "completely under control" and firemen were mopping up. A few flames continued flickering in the rubble, however.

The building, a Manhattan landmark, was left a hollow shell.

LOOKING in good spirits, Justice Minister Stuart Garson returned to the House of Commons today for the first time since undergoing an operation June 1. The 62-year-old minister was operated on for an abdominal ailment.

World Could Be Split By U.S. Policy—Nehru

BONN, Germany (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru says U.S. policy could split the world into two hostile camps.

"The United States expects others to follow its will," the visiting Indian leader said in a speech to the West German foreign policy association Saturday night.

"If they do not, they the United States feel hurt and think there is something wrong with the other man's thinking.

"This kind of thinking leaves no room for any country to sit on the fence. If carried to its final end, it divides the world into two hostile camps, each of which is ready to spring at the throat of the other."

Nehru said the cold war "leads to encouraging hatred, suspicion and fear of the other."

PERVERTED THINKING

"Much of our thinking is perverted by concepts of communism and anti-communism. If Russia had been a great power, as it is today, without being a Communist power, the same conflict undoubtedly would exist."

The prime minister said the two major world problems today are a divided Germany and the Far East.

Nehru called the German problem a tremendous one. He said it could be solved either by "imposed overwhelming strength" or by peaceful negotiation.

"In this case, however, a climate of peace must be created," he added.

Nehru said it was wrong to harass Russia after the Bolshevik revolution. This mistake was repeated in the treatment accorded Red China. He called the Peiping regime stable and strong and repeated his demand that it be seated in the United Nations.

Nehru said world conditions are improving and a "climate of peace is being created." He declared "too much importance is attached to the military method of doing things, adding that "men still count despite the atomic bomb."

He spoke against the background of a press conference at which he declined to rule out the possibility that India might recognize Communist East Germany.

FUTURE UNKNOWN

"I do not know what the developments will be," Nehru said. "No minister of my government can tie down the government and say what it is going to do in the future."

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has repeatedly declared the Bonn republic would consider recognition of the rival German government by other states a hostile act. Adenauer's position is that such recognition would solidify the division of Germany. India now has diplomatic relations with West Germany and maintains only trade ties with East Germany.

Nehru is winding up a four-day visit to West Germany after attending the Commonwealth conference in London.

Arsonist Five Times

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chen Wei-Juo, 20-year-old student at a teachers' college, has been arrested on charges of trying five times to burn down his dormitory. "I wanted to destroy the dormitory," he told police, "because I can't have late dates with girls when I live there."

17-Year-Old Tackles Strait on Wednesday

English-born Anita Long of Victoria will be the youngest person to attempt the Strait of Juan de Fuca when she hits the waters at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

The pretty 17-year-old Wilson's Stationery clerk will plunge in at Rocky Point, near Albert Head.

Coach - manager Gerry Lavigne said today he wants his swimmer to be the first to succeed in the swim from the Canadian to the United States shore. If successful, another bid would be made at a later date from Victoria to Port Angeles.

Anita will "definitely" enter the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored mass swim from here to Port Angeles when definite dates and times have been arranged.

Accompanying vessel will be the tug Polar Forcite and navigator will be Capt. Rolly Robinson.

Meanwhile, less than $100 has been forthcoming for the Bill Muir swim fund.

Fund trustee, Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash, said today there had been "a lot of promises" but people just weren't following through. Muir made a valiant attempt a week ago, one of the best to date.

However, he has received $60 from the Douglas roller skating gardens which for the second night in a week donated skater money to Muir."

The post office is one of two patronage departments left in the government and Mr. Turnbull has tried to put it on a strictly business basis.

CONSORT FALLS IN POLO GAME; NOT INJURED

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP)—Duke of Edinburgh fell from his horse while playing polo Sunday. Queen Elizabeth and their two children were looking on.

Two medical men among the spectators at Windsor Great Park rushed to the knot of players around the duke. By the time they reached him, the duke had risen to his feet. He remounted another pony and resumed play.

One doctor said there seemed to be nothing wrong with the Queen's husband. The saddle of the duke's mount came off while the duke was chasing the ball in midfield.

Alternate Day Milk Delivery Seen Possible

By AB KENT

An eight-hour day in a five-day week as desired by Victoria local of Milk Driers' and Dairy Workers Union could mean introduction of alternate day milk delivery in the city.

The union is expected to make its annual contract demands in about two months, following anticipated settlement of negotiations between Vancouver employees and operators, with which local workers are at parity. Mainland demand is for an eight-hour day.

Companies want a five-day week with no deliveries Sunday, as at present, or Wednesday.

The union objects to this proposal, staunchly opposed in negotiations last year, on grounds that deliverymen would be required to accomplish the work of two days prior to each off-day, and would have extra work in pickup of empty bottles the following days.

It has been suggested that routes and drivers be split up to allow alternate deliveries and still give drivers a five-day week.

For example, in an area presently served by three delivery trucks each with 300 customers, the route would be split between two drivers, giving one man the opportunity to work on an alternate route, or take his day off.

The two drivers would handle 450 customers between them on alternate days, making 225 each per day. But since each customer would be visited only every other day, extra milk would be required, coming out in effect at 450 deliveries per working day.

Provincial regulations presently restrict milkmen to no more than 10 hours' employment in one day, or 350 in seven weeks, which comes out to 15 hours a week more than allowed by the Hours of Work Act, union secretary John Brown said in Vancouver.

Regulations have been effective for many years, he pointed out, and much of their interpretation is ambiguous.

Britain To Cut Arms 25%?

LONDON (AP) — Sharp slashes in Britain's defence budget appear imminent. There is a growing feeling here that the Soviet threat now is more economic than military.

The Russians are making headway in a campaign to convince Western countries — particularly Britain and France — that arms expenditures are at the root of their economic woes. It could have a far-reaching effect on the Western defence set-up.

Prime Minister Eden's government is under pressure to make drastic cuts in both men and money earmarked for defence—as much as 33⅓ per cent. Government ministers are talking in terms of a 25-per-cent reduction.

Britain now spends about $4,500,000,000 on defence out of a total annual budget equivalent to $12,500,000,000.

The Opposition has long been clamoring for slowing the defence program.

LIBERAL DEMANDS

During the weekend Liberal leader Clement Davies, whose party often supports the government's general policy, joined in demanding a cut. Davies suggested nearly $1,500,000,000 could be lopped off.

"The whole strategy of war has completely changed, he said.

JAKARTA (AP)—The result of Indonesia's marathon Constituent Assembly elections was announced officially today—seven months after voting started on Dec. 15.

TWO OF 3,000 SEAGULLS that will be banded here this year were caught by Mrs. E. D. Wood, left, of Saanichton, and Miss Lucille Ten Hompel, Pittsburgh, on Gull Island, near Oak Bay. Birds are babies, still wear spots.

THEY FOLLOWED THE BIRDS . . .

1,600 Seagulls Banded

Members of Victoria Fish and Game Association, led by official bird bander E. D. Wood of Saanichton, helped in the banding on the weekend of 1,600 seagulls for the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, and Canada Wildlife Service.

Object of the project, which will see 3,000 birds banded before the end of the season, is to find out what percentage of the gulls here are migratory, and what percentage local.

"Bands applied here have turned up as far away as California," Mr. Wood said. "The most unusual, though, was the report of a Seattle man who read the number on a band while sitting in a dentist's chair. The bird had perched on the windowsill of the dentist's office."

Largest of the weekend drives was held Sunday on Mandarte Island, seven miles offshore from Sidney. Members of the party, walking in a straight line at 50-foot intervals, searched for the young birds hiding in the grass. During the day 1,100 young birds were banded.

"We never have any difficulty getting help for a job like this," Mr. Wood said. "Ches Alexander took us over in his boat, and club members did the work."

In the party were Dave Hancock, an authorized bird bander like Mr. Wood, and game club members Jack Hiscock, Bob Cootes, John Hurly, S. Rhodes, Cliff McMillan, John Hamilton, George Gilbert, Norman Alexander, Jack Wood and Cliff Wood.

The work of both bird banders and part-time helpers is voluntary, Mr. Wood said.

He said thousands of birds are banded here every year, from chickadees to peregrine falcons, and woodpeckers to ringnecked pheasants.

Persons recovering banded birds and sending the bands to the Canada Wildlife Service are given the band for a souvenir, along with all recorded information on the bird, such as where it had been retrapped, if at all.

Jaycee Fair, Victoria Day Show Merger Seems Assured

Amalgamation of Victoria Day celebrations and the Junior Chamber of Commerce Victoria Agricultural and Industrial Fair next year seems assured, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said today.

Ald. Edgelow, chairman of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, said recent meetings with Jaycee officials indicate a week-long celebration in 1957 instead of the usual three-day festivity.

"It seems both groups are in accord. That way we wouldn't be competing against each other," he stated.

Preliminary discussions will continue between Ald. Edgelow and Police Commissioner Gordon Carter, who represents the Jaycees.

It is envisioned the fair would run in co-operation with the numerous outdoor events of the GVCA climaxing with the usual grand parade on Victoria Day.

Cyclist Inquest Ordered

Week-Old Injuries Fatal to Man, 68

An inquest will be held Tuesday.

Tourist Marker Yellow Lines To Be Challenged

Legality of the chamber of commerce-inspired yellow line, recently painted on streets leading to points of local interest for easier tourist direction, will be questioned at the next meeting of Victoria police commission.

Police commissioner William Hamilton said today he thought the city and adjoining municipalities may have unintentionally slowed city traffic.

"How can you pass?" he asked.

He pointed out that provincial regulations for road travel make it an offence for a driver to cross a solid centre line. The yellow line is a centre line even though it was painted merely as a tourist guide.

It extends for miles over some narrow streets and if the law is to be observed would mean passing would be illegal in a widespread section of Greater Victoria.

Whether the city has "painted itself into a corner" will be investigated. The matter was also brought up recently by city council but city engineer J. C. Garnett said then he felt the regulation would not apply to those streets affected.

GUS RYDER
. . . for whom the Bell tolls

NO SWIM EASY

Over a Mile It's Tough. Says Ryder

By DENNY BOYD

"There are no easy swims," says Marilyn Bell's famous coach, Gus Ryder.

"Once you get out over a mile, it is tough and you have to be ready for it."

That philosophy, which helped the world-famous coach-swimmer team tame the treacherous Lake Ontario and the English Channel, will be the theme of training as Ryder prepares Marilyn for her Times-Tely assault on the Strait of Juan de Fuca in late August or early September.

The hard-bitten Ryder, who first met Marilyn when she enrolled in his Toronto Exhibition Lakeshore club as an eight-year-old, is a task-master who demands discipline and the maximum of hard work from his charges.

TOUGHNESS SOUGHT

At a press conference Sunday night, shortly after the arrival of the Bell party, Ryder said, "While we are training, we want to hit the toughest conditions this water can throw at us.

"I am giving Marilyn Monday off to rest up from her trip but we will start training on Tuesday. She will swim every day except Sundays and we will gradually step up the daily swims to six hours or so."

Ryder added, however, "We want to save our big effort for the actual swim. It is no use expanding everything in practice and there is nothing worse than a stale swimmer."

NOT AT PEAK NOW

"Right now, Marilyn is not at the best of physical condition. She has just finished her exams and they fagged her a bit. We've got a lot of work ahead of us. The best practice for a football player is playing football and the best conditioning for a swimmer is swimming. We have a few exercises that she does in the water but swimming is still the best preparation."

"We expect the toughest kind of swim out here and we are going to search out as much local advice as we can regarding a course. That's just common sense."

"Salt water will never hurt Marilyn or make her sick. Part of our training program consists of making her swallow mouthfuls of salt water. That way, she gets used to it and if she swallows some during her swim, it won't nauseate her because she will be used to it."

The extremely Canada-conscious coach said, "This girl is a wonderful Canadian. We didn't have to do any importing for swimming the way we do for football. I don't think she has reached her peak yet and just how great she can become will depend on how long she wants to continue swimming. The main things in her favor right now are her wonderful courage and the fact that she still enjoys swimming."

Seized With Leg Cramps, Sinks to Bed of Elk Lake

Fastion action Sunday night on the part of swimmers and spectators saved the life of Ken Showers, 17, of 575 Walters avenue, who came close to drowning at 8.45 p.m. at Elk lake.

At home today and "feeling fine," he blamed a leg cramp for the near tragedy.

"I started off from the beach by the Black Swan to swim to the float," he said. "All of a sudden I couldn't move my legs. I swam a few feet with just my arms, then called for help to my friend, Ron Burnett, on the float."

Burnett, not too strong and just a month out of a cast applied for a back fracture, reached Showers, but the two of them sank to the bottom of the lake at one time while Burnett struggled to keep them afloat.

With the help of Arnold Lowe and Irwin Le Bus, other swimmers at the scene, Showers was taken to the float and artificial respiration was applied. In the meantime, Vernon Exton, 3375 Connorton Lane, an off-duty navy fireman, went to the float in a rowboat and applied the Holger-Nielson method of artificial respiration.

It was continued until a Saanich fire department inhalator crew arrived. Showers was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for observation, but was released Sunday night and allowed to return home. He is a student at Mount View High School.

Old Post Office Demolition Set When Fences Up

Demolition of the front section of the old post office building is expected to begin as soon as fences are erected, it was learned today.

Permit for construction of a new Customs and Immigration Building, a project estimated to cost $973,000, was issued at city hall Friday.

William Hamilton of the construction firm Luney Bros, and Hamilton said crews are already engaged stripping the interior of the buiding. Customs offices which have occupied the section to be demolished have been moved into temporary quarters at the rear section will be retained and added to.

The new building will be built with reinforced concrete walls and floors and will be three stories in height. Location is at 816 Government at Humboldt.

Several small buildings at the rear will also be knocked down; the total floor area to be demolished measures 31,880 square feet.

Licence Principle Held Undemocratic

The principle of forest management licences is undemocratic, counsel for Western Forest Management Association Ronald Howard told the Sloan Commission here today.

He said that the problem of the B.C. forest inquiry was one of "resisting, recapturing and reapplying" democratic principles in disposal of public property.

Mr. Howard said the provincial government should treat all organizations in relation to provincial forests alike.

He said under the existing forest management licences privileges were granted "the few" at the expense of many.

"You are determining the fate of this industry," he told the commissioner, Chief Justice Gordon Sloan.

The Sloan commission's 16 months of sessions throughout the province have heard evidence "overwhelmingly" in favor of return to free allocation of forests," he said.

If the present policy of granting FML's is continued it pointed the way to the great bulk of natural resources winding up in the hands of the few.

Mr. Howard indicated the system of free enterprise and granting of FML's were at loggerheads.

"We support the principle of sustained yield . . . we are opposed to granting of FML's anywhere.'

He advocated that all existing FML licence areas be surveyed; that all forest land not now included be put in public working circles fixed by law; and that no licences of any description be granted to cut down crown timber.

ASK The TIMES

Q. To settle an argument, will you please tell us if it was more than 15 years ago that a cougar was shot at the Victoria Public Library?—B. L.

A. Yes, it was more than 30 years ago when the animal, which had wandered into downtown Victoria, was traced by police to a low wall behind the library and shot and killed about 5.15 a.m.

Q. Has Barbara Ann Scott ever visited Victoria?—O. T. W.

A. She came here and performed in the Memorial arena with her show, "Ice Capers of '53," March 26, 27 and 28 of that year. At that time she told interviewers she recalled a visit she made in March, 1942, during which she took a tallyho ride, a cold experience while she listened to the conductor of the tour describe the delights of the same drive in the spring and summer months.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Face-Lifting for Downtown End of Government Street

One of city's most important and oldest thoroughfares, Government Street, was resurfaced Sunday in lightning-fast one-day job. All traffic was diverted. New surface of non-skid flush-coating was laid from Belleville to Discovery. At left, spectator Bill Johnson gives new-look roadway a pat on the back. City engineer J. C. Garnett said cooler temperatures aided job; heat makes tar bleed and impairs the surface.

Long-range view shows Discovery to Hillside section of Government which will be repaved shortly. Sunday, all traffic will be re-routed to permit flush coating of Douglas Street from Belleville to Discovery. Street program is part of $100,000 improvement network slated for 1956. Minor irritation in connection with Government Street job is dust from pebble coating. However, this will disappear as cars grind pebbles into tarry undercoat.

Equal Pay Laws Discussed On Final Convention Day

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women Friday night recommended opposition to wordage which might be used in the federal government's proposed equal pay legislation to define equal work as that "identical or substantially identical," with work done by men.

Employment conditions chairman Margaret Hyndman told the federation's 15th biennial convention that equal work was defined with these words in equal pay legislation passed this year by the Manitoba government.

Miss Hyndman said it has been indicated that these same words would be used in the proposed government legislation covering equal pay for women in industries under federal jurisdiction.

"Apart from being extraordinarily bad English, the words are, we fear, an invitation to employers to try to define jobs out of the operation of the act," the Toronto lawyer said.

ENDED SATURDAY

Miss Hyndman's recommendation that if these words were used in the federal legislation, the federation would voice its opposition and asked that the word "equivalent", meaning "work of equal value," be used instead, was unanimously approved by the convention.

Some 450 delegates and observers are attending the two-day biennial meeting which ended Saturday with the presentation of resolutions, the elections of officers and a wind-up banquet with Ruth Tomlinson, president of the federation in Great Britain and Ireland, as guest speaker.

The Canadian meeting followed the triennial congress of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women which ended five-day sessions here Thursday and elected Miss Hyndman as its president.

STIFF COMPETITION

Friday night Miss Hyndman warned that if women are paid equally with men, they will have to meet stiff competition in efficiency and competition, and become worthy of the equal rights.

Five provinces have already introduced equal pay legislation, she said, "and we now await the introduction of the government bill."

She said that with the introduction of equal pay laws, women must make sure that the legislation is enforced, and infringements and interpretations which would adversely affect the declared purposes of the acts should be carefully watched.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. "Is there any good book on skin care?"

A. I am sure that there are many but right now I will give you a few of the main tenents. Cleanliness: If your skin is normal use soap and water twice a day. If you are an adolescent use these four times a day. If you are past 35 you probably will need a lubricating cream daily.

If your skin is oily, use only soap and water, no creams on it. Use an astringent after cleansing. If it is very dry do not use soap and water at all. Cleanse it with a cleansing cream and also employ a lubricating cream. Use no astringents.

Remember that nutrition and exercise, emotional states and the general state of health affect the skin drastically.

Q. "Does a weekly application of vegetable hair rinse harm the hair? Mine has been coming out badly recently."

A. No, not unless you are allergic to it and this is seldom true of a rinse. It is often true when dye is used.

Q. "I need to lose weight but when I diet I become very weak. Why is this?"

A. There is a certain feeling of hollowness when you first diet after eating much more than you should have for many years. However, you probably are dieting incorrectly. Eat three meals a day with some inbetween snacks. Count all of this in on your daily calorie intake.

Make your inbetween snacks things like fresh fruit or fruit juice, skim milk or buttermilk, carrot sticks or celery. Many women make the mistake of cutting out a meal and therefore feel weak. These same women usually make up for it at their one big meal.

Q. "Will the skin ever return to normal color and pigmentation after a terrific suntanning? My skin was blistered and then peeled off. Now I have a few light freckles and dirty looking skin on my shoulders and it has been months."

A. Usually the skin finally returns to normal color unless it is treated over and over again in the same way. However, sometimes this takes a year or so.

Q. "Do you think a woman is too old to begin exercise after she is 30?"

A. Don't make me laugh! She is never too old to exercise if she takes the right kind for her condition and age unless she has some organic or systemic abnormality.

If you would like my six introductory exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 25. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Broad gains in rye appeared in active trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. The gains were stimulated by advances in wheat and rye prices in the United States and the announcement by the American government of a new subsidy policy under which export wheat purchases will be routed through open market at Chicago.

Oats and barley had fair domestic shipper and export demand. A small quantity of barley was reported sold to the United Kingdom. Flax prices were irregular, with selling by U.S. interests and a few export orders on recessions.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat soared on the board of trade today in response to a new government export policy, announced during the weekend.

The strength in wheat was reflected in rye, which also scored substantial gains. Other cereals were mostly firm although gains were not large. At times oats dipped under the previous close.

Western oils slipped, but only fractionally, after attaining a record high with an advance of more than three points. Base metals were ahead almost two points.

Papers, utilities, constructions, refining oils, financial institutions and manufacturers provided industrials with strong gains. Algoma Steel was up 3½ points. McColl added 2¼ and Southam two points. Trans Mountain gained 1¾

Consolidated Smelters paced senior base metals higher with a point gain. Nipissing advanced 20 cents among juniors. Lake Cinch moved ahead 25 cents in uranimus. Northspan lost 20 cents and Consolidated Denison 15 cents.

National Peter featured western oils, gaining 80 cents. Triad was up 50 cents and Central Leduc 40 cents. Consolidated Mic Mac lost 15 cents.

VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER — Bethlehem Copper continued to gain as it opened at 2.25 and rose to 2.36, with a last reading of 2.34 at noon, selling 15,000 shares. Vantor sold 35,500 as it opened at 1.91, rose to 1.97, and then dropped for a last reading of 1.90, while Tropan sold 4,500 between .42 and .44.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrials on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges were generally higher today, led by scattered strong spots which appeared in moderate afternoon trading.

Refining oils featured the action as McColl gained 2½ and B-A added 1½. Trans Mountain climbed two points in pipe lines. Algoma jumped six points as Dosco firmed ¾ in steels.

Base metals were steady to narrowly higher as Aluminum was unchanged and Smelters tacked on ¾. Papers were fractionally improved with Consolidated up ⅝. In utilities Shawinigan added ¾.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils and selected issues kept the stock market on the upside by a slim margin late this afternoon.

my side of the story

A continuing series
BY THE DUCHESS OF WINDSOR

In our flight across France there was no shaking off the pursuit now, and for an hour we drove in the company of our unwanted escorts, a long line of cars moving almost bumper to bumper at breakneck speed. Every now and then one of the pursuers would roar past for a closer look at the quarry.

Directly ahead of our route was the town of Vienne, famous, among other things, for the Restaurant de la Pyramide, which has one of the finest cuisines in the world.

From my previous travels I had come to know its proprietors, Monsieur and Madame Point, upon whose discretion and solicitude I was sure I could count.

We arrived there about three in the afternoon, our pursuers breathing down our necks. They followed Perry and me into the building but kept their distance.

Nobody tried to force me into giving an interview. But there was no mistaking the look of triumph on the faces of the reporters. They had run me down and did not propose to let me get away again.

Madame Point took me up to her own room. I was desperately tired and I had not eaten all day.

While Madame Point went to order a simple lunch, I finally succeeded in reaching David on the telephone. The connection was almost intelligible. I repeated the gist of the message I had tried to get through to him from Evreux. David was reassuring but non-committal.

PRIVATE ROOM

So that our group would not be bothered, Madame Point insisted on serving our lunch in her private banquet hall, a room large enough to seat at least 40.

In this setting of lonely grandeur Perry and I lunched together at the far end of the room, while Evans ate alone at the other end, his eyes trained on the door.

It was Madame Point who came forward with a brilliant scheme for rescuing us from our pursuers.

The Press was also hungry, and had ordered en masse a meal that must have made formidable inroads upon their employers' bank accounts. Madame Point had sufficient confidence in the excellence of her husband's cuisine to be certain that the meal in preparation would engross them for several hours.

LOSING THE PRESS

"Meanwhile, madame," she said, "there is a back stairway leading down to the kitchen. There, easily reached from the top of a table, is a not-too-small window from which one might drop into a narrow alley not likely to be known to these strangers.

"If madame will give the necessary instructions to her chauffeur, Monsieur Point will guide the motor unobtrusively into the alley. And if madame herself is not opposed to a course which, while perhaps lacking in dignity, nevertheless will—"

"Madame Point," I interrupted, "I'm ready to try anything."

And it was in this manner that I made my escape, squeezing myself through a tiny window while Madame Point and Perry Brownlow braced a kitchen table beneath my feet, and Monsieur Point and Evans, disposed like acrobats outside in the alley, manoeuvred to catch me as I slid down.

RUSE WORKS

It was a feat that would, I am sure, have brought a nod of approval from Miss Charlotte Noland, my girlhood gym instructor of Arundell days. Perry Brownlow, after he had wriggled his way through the window in his turn, remarked dryly, "Too bad Stanley Baldwin missed that little scene."

In any case, the ruse worked. As we entered the car there came to us faintly from the restaurant the sounds of the press bloodhounds enjoying their fine luncheon.

Through the rest of the afternoon, in sleet and rain, over twisting roads, Perry took turns driving with Ladbrook.

The day had wearied us all; talk ceased; even the vigilant Evans dozed in his seat as the car sped down the all-but-deserted highways.

ALL ALONE

I felt most frightfully alone. It seemed that I had been gone from the Fort not for two days but for a lifetime. All that had happened to me there now took on an unreal and remote aspect.

Because of the storm, the roundabout route, and the time lost in Vienne, we were still three hours from Cannes, and I was afraid that Rogerses, thinking we must have stopped on the road for the night, might be about to go to bed.

It was then about 11 o'clock; we were approaching a town called Brignoles, and Perry decided we should telephone Herman. But Brignoles was shuttered for the night as tightly as only a French provincial town can be.

PUBLIC PHONE

The post office, where public calls are ordinarily made, was dark. Perry banged with his fists on the big front door. Suddenly shutters flew open, at least four heads popped out of windows, and there was directed at Perry a fusillade of Gallic indignation that could have started the cobblestones from the street.

Perry finally broke the barrage and made known his desire to use the telephone. An elderly gentleman with fierce mustachios bellowed back that the telephone was in plain sight in a box on the wall a short distance down the street.

He recommended that Perry use it, if, on further thought, he could find any rational justification for telephoning respectable people at such an outlandish hour.

Perry made his way to the box while Ladbrook and I followed slowly in the car.

WEDNESDAY: David stands firm.

Permits Needed Day to Day for Trash-Burning

All permist for burning rubbish within Victoria city limits have been cancelled until the present dry spell is over.

Fire Chief Frank Briers said permits will be issued from day to day to persons who telephone or appear at any fire station.

Daily permits are required even if an incinerator is used.

The action followed a number of chimney and grass fires in the city last week.

"It's getting pretty hazardous throughout the city," said Chief Briers. "The new rules will stay in effect until we get a break in the weather."

Similar regulations are also being enforced in surrounding municipalities.

In Esquimalt permits are issued only for incinerator fires which must be guarded with a garden hose.

Saanich and Oak Bay both require daily permits for all outside burning.

SAW TRAIN WRECK ON TV SO BOYS DID JUST THAT

KENTVILLE, N.S. (BUP)—Four boys who said they learned how to derail a train by watching a television program were scheduled to reappear in the juvenile court Aug. 14 charged with being directly responsible for the derailment of a Dominion Atlantic Railway train.

The train left the rails and went over on its side up against a steep embankment. No one was injured.

B.C. Pioneer, W. J. Alder, 90 on Sunday

Vivtoria realtor and pioneer of Prince Rupert, William James Alder celebrated his 90th birthday Sunday.

He was born near Greenwich, England, and came to Victoria 40 years ago. He built the first commercial building at Prince Rupert for the old Grand Trunk Railway in 1909.

Mr. Alder was appointed commissioner of the city by the provincial government to take it out of the red during the depression. This was accomplished by 1940 and the city returned to normal municipal government although a large number of residents petitioned the cabinet to leave Mr. Alder as commissioner.

MASSEY TRAVELLING IN '2ND-CLASS' PLANE

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today agreed with John Diefenbaker (PC, Prince Albert) that Governor-General Massey should not have to travel in "second-class, unpressurized" aircraft.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked in the Commons why Mr. Massey is travelling in a "second-class" plane during his official trip to Western Canada. The aircraft is an RCAF North Star.

Mr. St. Laurent replied there must be good reasons why the RCAF luxury transport C-5 was unavailable for Mr. Massey's trip. He would inquire and reply later.

Mr. St. Laurent returned from the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London aboard the C-5 July 7 about half an hour before Mr. Massey left on his western tour.

Marilyn's Diary

Hello Folks!

At last we are in Victoria, where we will meet that stretch of water I have heard so much about—the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Marilyn

That name—I wonder how many times it has gone through my mind in the past few months?

But the thinking part is over now. We are here and we are going to settle right down to my training program for the swim I want so badly to make.

The welcome we received on our arrival at the airport Sunday night was something I will always cherish.

★ ★ ★

I met Mayor Scurrah at the airport and he told me that he hoped I would carry away many lovely memories of Victoria. The friendly manner in which people greeted us will certainly live forever in the minds of our party, I can promise that.

At the airport, I met civic representatives and people connected with the arrangements for my swim. I also met three other swimmers who have tried the strait and I thought it was very kind of them to come out to greet me and wish me luck.

Amy Hiland, who made a very brave attempt last week was there and I was surprised at how well she looked. She had a tough swim Friday, yet on Sunday she looked as fresh and pretty as a flower.

Bill Muir is the first bearded distance swimmer I have ever met and I wondered if Ben Laughren has any trouble keeping to his training program when he is such an accomplished chef.

★ ★ ★

On our drive in from the airport, I kept taking deep gulps of the wonderfully clean, fresh air and I thought the countryside looked so pretty with all the farms and fields.

I was waving to people from the car and there were so many people that I accidentally waved to a mailbox once by mistake. No wonder it didn't wave back!

★ ★ ★

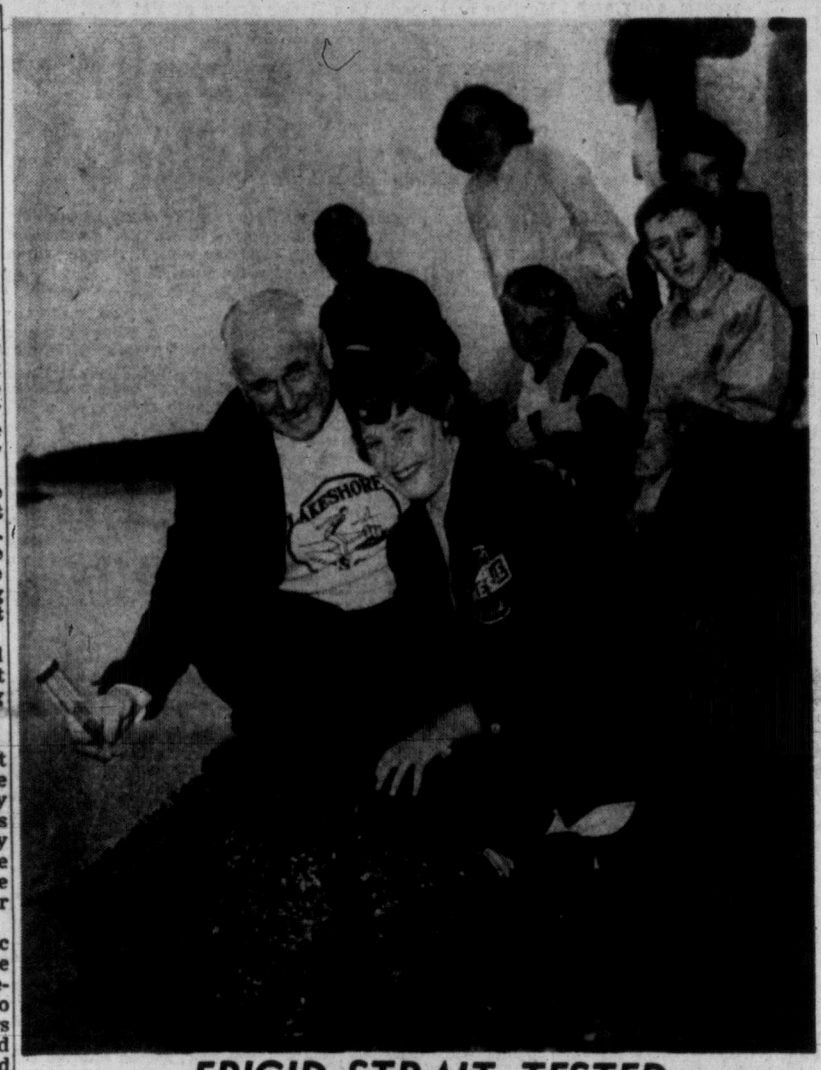
The Old Charming Inn certainly is properly named. It is quaint, lovely and wonderfully comfortable. Gus said I don't have to swim today so I think I will spend as much time in my room as I can. It's really too pretty to leave.

I want to enjoy the comforts of life while I can because from here on in, we are going to work. This will be the toughest challenge of my life and I want to be ready for it.

Marilyn Bell

Aussies Score 143

LEEDS, Eng. (Reuters)—Australia was all-out for 143 runs in answer to England's first innings total of 325 by mid-afternoon on the fourth day of the third cricket test match here today.



FRIGID STRAIT TESTED

Marilyn Bell and coach Gus Ryder familiarized themselves with Juan de Fuca Strait this morning, but only to the extent of taking the water temperature. The actual introduction of the swim team and the strait will come Tuesday morning when Marilyn makes her first practice. Group of wide-eyed youngsters followed Marilyn this morning.

Big Welcome Gives Swimmer a Thrill

By DENNY BOYD

Marilyn Bell, the Toronto swimming star, got up at 7 a.m. today for her first "unofficial" look at Victoria and loved it.

She and her companion, Maria Brenk, went for a stroll along the Oak Bay waterfront before breakfast.

With her toes Marilyn tested the water of Juan de Fuca Strait which she will attempt to swim five or six weeks from now.

After breakfast she and her coach, Gus Ryder and other swim party members went over to Oak Bay boathouse to inspect the training boat "Alibi" owned by Dakers Scott. A hundred Oak Bay children tagged along and Marilyn posed with them for pictures.

Marilyn will make her first training swim at 9 a.m. Tuesday. It had been planned to have her swim this morning, but Coach Ryder ruled instead she should have a day of relaxation after her flight from Toronto Sunday.

Marilyn arrived Sunday night to a tumultuous welcome which set the stage for her meeting with "the Mount Everest of swims."

And Victoria fell in love with her.

Coach Ryder was as enthusiastic about Victoria as Marilyn.

"There is a quaintness and a peace here. Perhaps you who live here are so accustomed to it you don't notice it. It reminds me of when we were training for the Channel at Folkestone last year."

The 18-year-old Toronto girl, conqueror of Lake Ontario and the English Channel, arrived at Patricia Bay Airport at 6.45 Sunday night together with her famous coach, silver-thatched Gus Ryder, and her travelling companions, to begin intensive training for her Times-Tely strait swim in late August or early September.

Touched By Victoria's Greeting

Victorians provided a warm welcome that obviously touched the girl who became an internationally-known figure in 1954 when she courageously battled for 16 hours to become the first person to swim Lake Ontario.

A crowd of almost 1,000 packed the airport, jostling each other in an effort to see her and to shout words of welcome and wishes of "Good Luck, Marilyn, we're all behind you."

As she stepped off her airplane, Miss Bell was greeted by Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times which is a co-sponsor of the $20,000-guaranteed swim.

Arriving with Marilyn and coach Ryder were Marilyn's travelling companion, Maria Brenk; chaperone Phyllis Griffiths of the Toronto Telegram, and Telegram reporter-photographer team, Dorothy Howarth and Jack Judges.

Mr. Keate introduced Marilyn to Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurrah, and Mrs. Scurrah presented the five-foot, two-inch 129-pound swim star with a bouquet of red roses on behalf of the city.

Civic greetings were extended Marilyn by Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich, Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt and Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay.

Harold Elworthy, Island Tug & Barge president, gave Miss Bell an encouraging message when he told her, "We are supplying the boats for your swim and we are going to get you across."

Miss Bell was particularly pleased to meet three other swimmers who have tried, unsuccessfully, to defeat the Strait. On hand to offer their best wishes were Amy Hiland, the courageous Long Beach, Calif., housewife, who failed last Friday by a scant mile and a half, to become the first woman to cross the Strait; Saanich surveyor Bill Muir, who also came within a mile and a half of success, and Ben Laughren, the swimming chef, who is considered a top contender in the Juan de Fuca fight.

Marilyn said to Mrs. Hiland, "You made a wonderful try. I heard all about it and I was so sorry that you had bad luck so close to the finish.

She joked with Muir about the whiskers he is growing to celebrate the Saanich Golden Jubilee and posed for pictures, tickling the whiskers.

Others in the receiving line were swim officials Archie McKinnon and Jack Todd and Mrs. Jean Henderson of the Cerebral Palsy Association.

Leaving the airport, Marilyn and Gus perched on the top of the back seat of their car, waving at people who parked along the highway to watch the motorcade that started with 10 cars and grew to 40.

A police motorcycle escort picked up the car parade at the city limits and, sirens wailing

Adenauer, Nehru Ask Disarmament

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany and Prime Minister Nehru of India today called for a world disarmament agreement including proper provisions for control and inspection. Their views were set out in a joint communique issued after Nehru's three-day visit to Bonn.

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia today called on the United States and Britain to agree that all three countries stop testing nuclear weapons.

Dmitri Shepilov, making his first public address here since taking over from V. M. Molotov as foreign minister, told 1,300 delegates to the Supreme Soviet this aim could be achieved in any one of three ways. He listed these as:

1. Within the framework of the United Nations.

2. A tripartite agreement among the three powers concerned, which other countries could join later.

3. Separate official statement from each government declaring they were abandoning nuclear tests.

URGE JOINT DEMAND

Shepilov urged the three-way agreement shortly after the Supreme Soviet, meeting in the Kremlin, unanimously adopted an appeal addressed to all other parliaments in the world to join with the Soviet legislation in demanding an end to the arms race and swifter progress toward disarmament.

His statement came in a debate on a motion, later adopted unanimously, extending Soviet support to an appeal from the Japanese parliament for an end to nuclear weapons tests. The Soviet action came a week before the scheduled start of peace treaty talks with the Japanese.

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United States were reported today willing to negotiate an agreement with Russia to limit—but not end—the testing of nuclear weapons.

British and American diplomats said the aim would be to guard mankind against the hazards of radiation.

Well, we've added the queen o' hearts to that royal flush o' strait swimmers.

Gas Price War Waged On Mainland

VANCOUVER (CP)—A gasoline price war has started in suburban Burnaby.

Two service stations served notice that they were cutting the price of gas as much as six cents.

British Columbia's only self-service station announced that starting today prices would drop to 33.9 cents a gallon for regular and 36.9 cents for premium.

Across the street a station operator cut prices four cents Saturday to meet his competitor.

A station on the Lougheed highway cut prices four cents Saturday to 34.9 cents a gallon.

Al McTaggart, operator of the station, admitted a price "war" is on and said today "I hope something happens soon. We aren't losing money; but we sure aren't making any."

"The operators decided to meet competition in the area," said a Shell Oil spokesman.

PRINCESS, TOWNSEND IN WEEKEND MEETING?

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret slipped back into London today quietly and alone after a weekend in the country.

The Sunday Express suggested she may have met Group Capt. Peter Townsend at mutual friends' house party. Townsend was also reported to be spending the weekend "in the country."

B.C. Child Dragged to Death

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Paulette Martin, 2, her harness hooked to the rear bumper of a car, was dragged a mile to her death near this Kootenay centre Saturday.

RCMP said the baby was the daughter of Mrs. J. P. Martin of Sunshine Bay, B.C. Her father lives in Vancouver.

She was staying at the farm of her grandparents at Proctor, 20 miles west of here.

Police said John Dvorak, 19, had borrowed a car from the child's grandparents and returned it Saturday.

Then he jumped into his own vehicle, not knowing the child's leather harness had been hooked to the rear bumper to keep her from wandering into a nearby creek.

The child was dragged a mile before the driver was stopped by the frantic shouts of witnesses.

Other B.C. fatalities included an unidentified woman who drowned when her car plunged into the Skeena river, 66 miles east of Prince Rupert.

Fred May, 65, died after being hit by a car in Vancouver's East End.

L. E. Savard, 34, of Quesnel, died Saturday when he sank below the surface of the 10-mile lake. It was not known if he drowned or died of a heart attack.

Archie McLellan, 35, of Edmonton, a welder, was crushed to death in a ditch by a pipe on which he was working. He had moved to Surrey, B.C., recently.

216 Firemen Hurt In N.Y. Inferno

NEW YORK (AP)—A week-end fire that destroyed the old, abandoned John Wanamaker department store and knocked out a section of the subway caused an unprecedented jam-up of riders at Grand Central Terminal today.

Nearly a dozen persons were felled by the heat during the morning rush hour, in what a policeman described as the largest crowd he had ever seen at the normally busy terminal.

Water from fire hoses poured onto the burning building down on Astor Place cascaded into the Interborough Rapid Transit Lexington Avenue line and the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit subway. Both link Brooklyn and Manhattan and serve a large area of Manhattan.

The stubborn fire, meanwhile smoldered into a third day in the ruins of the old block-square building in lower Manhattan.

The toll of firemen treated for smoke poisoning, cuts and burns mounted to 216. Twenty were in hospital.

Officials said a spark from an acetylene torch may have started the blaze Friday. Wreckers had recently begun demolishing the ornate stone and iron structure.

The fire apparently smouldered in the basement until late Saturday afternoon. Then flames suddenly shot up an air well in the centre of the five-storey building and spread to the roof.

The five-alarm fire roared out of control Saturday night and Sunday. At 1 a.m. today an assistant fire chief said the blaze was "completely under control" and firemen were mopping up. A few flames continued flickering in the rubble, however.

The building, a Manhattan landmark, was left a hollow shell.

Europe, Asia In Range of New Missile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has told Congress that a new ship-launched atomic missile now in the making will be able to hit any target within nine-tenths of the vast Communist domains of Europe and Asia.

That assumption is based on the ability of the launching ships to get close enough.

The navy disclosed some of its war plans for the Jupiter, as well as for missiles and attack planes already in the fleet, in hitherto secret testimony before the Senate airpower investigating committee headed by Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., Mo.).

Dean Neville Scarfe, newly appointed dean of the college of education at UBC, will speak on "Education and Morals" tonight at Oak Bay Junior High School at 8.15. Audience will be summer school students. This is Scarfe's first speech in Victoria.

LOOKING in good spirits, Justice Minister Stuart Garson returned to the House of Commons today for the first time since undergoing an operation June 1. The 62-year-old minister was operated on for an abdominal ailment.

and horns hooting, the cars proceeded to the Old Charming Inn in Oak Bay.

Miss Bell said to her driver, "I hope no one is trying to sleep in this neighborhood. City Hall might receive some nasty letters about all the noise."

She commented favorably on the freshness of the Victoria air, the beauty of the homes, and the city's famous hanging flower baskets.

On arrival at the picturesque inn, where 200 more people, most of them armed with cameras, awaited her. Marilyn spoke briefly to the crowd, saying, "I am really happy to be here. I want very much to try this swim and I want you to know that I will do my very best."

Coach Ryder told the crowd, "You can put your confidence in this fine young Canadian."

After a few minutes to look at her suite, Miss Bell answered dozens of questions at an informal press conference.

She told the press that she had heard about the Strait from unsuccessful challengers Florence Chadwick, Father Donelon and Janice White.

She said she preferred swimming in salt water for the buoyancy it provides, does not wear grease while swimming and would probably tackle the strait using a 60-70-cycle flutter-kick crawl.

Regarding temperatures, she said that she had swum in 42-degree water. She said, "If you're cold, you're cold and one or two degrees doesn't make much difference then."

Marilyn's training program will start Tuesday with her first practise swim. She was given today off to rest up from her long trip out from Toronto and the strain of her reception.

She will swim every day except Sundays and Ryder plans to gradually increase the duration of her practise swims.

He said, "Right now, Marilyn is 50 per cent in physical condition but, as always, she is 100 per cent in desire and courage."

No set date has been established for her swim but Marilyn said she has to return to Toronto for enrollment at McGill University in the third week of September. She will enter the first year of her physiotheraphy course.

Her rigid training regime will allow little time for social diversions but Marilyn will attend a Cerebral Palsy Association Garden Party at the Harold Husband home.

HERE AT LAST—Marilyn and coach Gus Ryder arrive at Pat Bay.

World Could Be Split By U.S. Policy—Nehru

BONN, Germany (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru says U.S. policy could split the world into two hostile camps.

"The United States expects others to follow its will," the visiting Indian leader said in a speech to the West German foreign policy association Saturday night.

"If they do not, they the United States feel hurt and think there is something wrong with the other man's thinking.

"This kind of thinking leaves no room for any country to sit on the fence. If carried to its final end, it divides the world into two hostile camps, each of which is ready to spring at the throat of the other."

Nehru said the cold war "leads to encouraging hatred, suspicion and fear of the other."

PERVERTED THINKING

"Much of our thinking is perverted by concepts of communism and anti-communism. If Russia had been a great power, as it is today, without being a Communist power, the same confliet undoubtedly would exist."

The prime minister said the two major world problems today are a divided Germany and the Far East.

Nehru called the German problem a tremendous one. He said it could be solved either by "imposed overwhelming strength" or by peaceful negotiation.

"In this case, however, a climate of peace must be created," he added.

Nehru said it was wrong to harass Russia after the Bolshevik revolution. This mistake was repeated in the treatment accorded Red China. He called the Peiping regime stable and strong and repeated his demand that it be seated in the United Nations.

Nehru said world conditions are improving and a "climate of peace is being created." He declared "too much importance is attached to the military method of doing things, adding that "men still count despite the atomic bomb."

He spoke against the background of a press conference at which he declined to rule out the possibility that India might recognize Communist East Germany.

FUTURE UNKNOWN

"I do not know what the developments will be," Nehru said. "No minister of my government can tie down the government and say what it is going to do in the future."

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has repeatedly declared the Bonn republic would consider recognition of the rival German government by other states a hostile act. Adenauer's position is that such recognition would solidify the division of Germany. India now has diplomatic relations with West Germany and maintains only trade ties with East Germany.

Nehru is winding up a four-day visit to West Germany after attending the Commonwealth conference in London.

17-Year-Old Tackles Strait on Wednesday

English-born Anita Long of Victoria will be the youngest person to attempt the Strait of Juan de Fuca when she hits the waters at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

The pretty 17-year-old Wilson's Stationery clerk will plunge in at Rocky Point, near Albert Head.

Coach - manager Gerry Lavigne said today he wants his swimmer to be the first to succeed in the swim from the Canadian to the United States shore. If successful, another bid would be made at a later date from Victoria to Port Angeles.

Anita will "definitely" enter the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored mass swim from here to Port Angeles when definite dates and times have been arranged.

Accompanying vessel will be the tug Polar Forcite and navigator will be Capt. Rolly Robinson.

Meanwhile, less than $100 has been forthcoming for the Bill Muir swim fund.

Fund trustee, Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash, said today there had been "a lot of promises" but people just weren't following through. Muir made a valiant attempt a week ago, one of the best to date.

However, he has received $60 from the Douglas roller skating gardens which for the second night in a week donated skater money to Muir."

AFTER 7 MONTHS

Indonesia Vote Known

JAKARTA (AP)—The result of Indonesia's marathon Constituent Assembly elections was announced officially today—seven months after voting started on Dec. 15.

Seats in the Constituent Assembly will be almost evenly divided among four major parties. This indicates the 520-member assembly will become a bitter political battleground and that this country, which now follows a neutral line, will not have a constitution for years.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Chen Wei-Juo, 20-year-old student at a teachers' college, has been arrested on charges of trying five times to burn down his dormitory. "I wanted to destroy the dormitory," he told police, "because I can't have late dates with girls when I live there."

CONSORT FALLS IN POLO GAME; NOT INJURED

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP)—Duke of Edinburgh fell from his horse while playing polo Sunday. Queen Elizabeth and their two children were looking on.

Two medical men among the spectators at Windsor Great Park rushed to the knot of players around the duke. By the time they reached him, the duke had risen to his feet. He remounted another pony and resumed play.

One doctor said there seemed to be nothing wrong with the Queen's husband. The saddle of the duke's mount came off while the duke was chasing the ball in midfield.

Alternate Day Milk Delivery Seen Possible

By AB KENT

An eight-hour day in a five-day week as desired by Victoria local of Milk Driers' and Dairy Workers Union could mean introduction of alternate day milk delivery in the city.

The union is expected to make its annual contract demands in about two months, following anticipated settlement of negotiations between Vancouver employees and operators, with which local workers are at parity. Mainland demand is for an eight-hour day.

Companies want a five-day week with no deliveries Sunday, as at present, or Wednesday.

The union objects to this proposal, staunchly opposed in negotiations last year, on grounds that deliverymen would be required to accomplish the work of two days prior to each off-day, and would have extra work in pickup of empty bottles the following days.

It has been suggested that routes and drivers be split up to allow alternate deliveries and still give drivers a five-day week.

For example, in an area presently served by three delivery trucks each with 300 customers, the route would be split between two drivers, giving one man the opportunity to work on an alternate route, or take his day off.

The two drivers would handle 450 customers between them on alternate days, making 225 each per day. But since each customer would be visited only every other day, extra milk would be required, coming out in effect at 450 deliveries per working day.

Provincial regulations presently restrict milkmen to no more than 10 hours' employment in one day, or 350 in seven weeks, which comes out to 15 hours a week more than allowed by the Hours of Work Act, union secretary John Brown said in Vancouver.

Regulations have been effective for many years, he pointed out, and much of their interpretation is ambiguous.

Two Germans Die In New Clashes With U.S. Troops

NUERNBERG, Germany (UP)—Bavarian government heads called a special session today to demand U.S. army action to halt clashes between American soldiers and German civilians. Two Germans were killed and a third hospitalized over the weekend.

Bavarian state president Wilhelm Hoegner summoned the council of ministers to Munich.

"Words do not help," he said. "Serious action must be taken now by U.S. army authorities or real trouble will start."

Two teen-age German girls were raped the previous weekend.

ORANGEMEN URGE SELECT IMMIGRATION

VANCOUVER (CP)—Some 2,000 members of the Loyal Orange Association in British Columbia's lower mainland area have urged the federal government to adopt a tighter immigration policy.

The delegates voted at their annual meeting Saturday in favor of a resolution calling for a "planned immigration policy which will permit into Canada only those persons of Anglo-Saxon states, or nationals of those countries which enjoy and practice our ideals and forms of government . . . and only those who can be readily assimilated."

98 ON SUNDAY — Harry Louis Salmon, retired tobacconist, marked his 98th birthday Sunday. London-born, he came to Victoria in 1884, bought a share in a newspaper, the Victoria Evening Post, and became its advertising manager. Shortly after he opened a cigar store at Yates and Government which was so well known the intersection was called "Salmon's Corner." Mr. Salmon is the oldest member of the Jewish faith in Victoria and the oldest past master of a Masonic lodge.

10-Lb., 10-Oz. Baby Also Has 10 Teeth

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (AP) — James Meeks was born with the following statistics: 10 pounds, 10 ounces, and 10 teeth.

That's right, 10 teeth, to the astonishment Saturday night of doctors and nurses at Sun Valley Hospital and James' parents, Lewis and Maria Meeks. They have four other children.

Baby James has more teeth than his brother, Lewis Jr., who is nearly two.

Britain To Cut Arms 25%?

LONDON (AP) — Sharp slashes in Britain's defence budget appear imminent. There is a growing feeling here that the Soviet threat now is more economic than military.

The Russians are making headway in a campaign to convince Western countries — particularly Britain and France — that arms expenditures are at the root of their economic woes. It could have a far-reaching effect on the Western defence set-up.

Prime Minister Eden's government is under pressure to make drastic cuts in both men and money earmarked for defence—as much as 33⅓ per cent. Government ministers are talking in terms of a 25-per-cent reduction.

Britain now spends about $4,500,000,000 on defence out of a total annual budget equivalent to $12,500,000,000.

The Opposition has long been clamoring for slowing the defence program.

LIBERAL DEMANDS

During the weekend Liberal leader Clement Davies, whose party often supports the government's general policy, joined in demanding a cut. Davies suggested nearly $1,500,000,000 could be lopped off...

"The whole strategy of war has completely changed, he said.
